READY TO HEAR GIRL'S $2,500 SUIT AGAINST DENTIST

Miss Hazel M. Dimick of Malden, who is suing Dr. Goerge M. Lee, a Brookline dentist, for $2,500, which sum, she declares was agreed upon as damages for an alleged attack upon her.

Preparations were begun today in a conference at the Suffolk County Courthouse for any early trial of the case of Hazel M. Dimick of Malden against Dr. George M. Lee, a wealthy Brookline dentist.

Miss Dimick has sued Dr. Lee for $2,500 damages. She says in her petition that she was in Dr. Lee's dentist chair when he attacked her. She says that it was finally agreed that Dr. Lee should pay her $2,500 to settle her claim for damages. This she says he has failed to do and brings suit for this amount.

Today F. D. Putnam, of Gasten, Snow & Saltonstall, appeared in court and agreed that Dr. Lee would not sell any of his property until the case was settled. John J. O'Connor, lawyer for Miss Dimick, had asked for an injunction preventing Dr. Lee from disposing of any of his property until the case was settled, but the injunction will not be necessary.

Miss Dimick is the daughter of Frederick P. Dimick of No. 185 Maple street, Malden, secretary of the Boston Fish Bureau.

"Prosperity has returned to the United States. I am getting optimistic reports from every quarter. The farmers have plenty of money and crops are good.

"We will not make war supplies for any country except the United States. We will make them for the defence of this country, as one would want to put a roof over one's house.

"I don't want any war supply order. It can be had, but I would not take."

"Are you not making 15,000 ambulances for the British army?" he was asked.

"Yes," replied the motor magnate, "I hardly call them munitions of war."

RANCHES IN PERIL ON BORDER

LAREDO, Tex., Aug. 9.—The battalion of the United States Ninth Infantry, comprising Companies B, F, G and K, Captain Kinney commanding, was rushed to Raymondsville, Cameron County, today, to protect the American ranches in that vicinity from the 200 Mexican bandits who have been raiding the country about. The battalion took rations for ten days.

HARLINGE, Tex., Aug. 9.—Three American troopers and two Texas Rangers wounded, between fifteen and twenty Mexican bandits killed and several other bandits wounded, this was the result of the two-hour battle at the King ranch house near Norias, Tex., last night, according to advices received by Chief of Police Morris of Harlinge.

The Mexican bandits who besieged the ranch and fired upon it for three hours numbered sixty men, according to Chief Morris, while the defending forces included eight United States soldiers, seven Texas Rangers and a number of the ranch employes.

The soldiers and Rangers formed part of a force that had been sent out to trail the bandit gang which has been committing depredations in Cameron County for more than a week. This force had been divided, and that part which took refuge in the King ranch house had been compelled to retire when they came upon a stronger force of bandits.

Another part of the force arrived after the troopers and Rangers had been firing through loopholes at the attacking Mexicans for two hours, and the bandits retreated. The reinforced soldiers and Rangers set out in pursuit of the fleeing Mexicans, and Chief Morris said that he expected to hear of more fighting hourly.

STATE NET OUT FOR SLAYERS

The State police and inspectors of the Massachusetts Highway Commission combined with local police in various sections today in a State-wide hunt for three death autos which, in the past three weeks, have killed people on the public highways and then sped away without paying the least attention to their victims.

The State-wide search is another manifestation of activity against drunken and reckless automobilists against whom the Boston AMERICAN inaugurated a crusade on July 25.

The latest victim of a death car is John Griffin of Fall River, who died at the Beverly Hospital after being struck by an auto and left dying on Dobson's Hill in Ipswich on Sunday. The death car and its occupants fled.

POLICE DRAGNET SPREAD.

The Highway Commission has assigned Inspector A. A. Bonnagni to the Ipswich case. A brother and sister of the slain man came from Lawrence to Beverly and to Ipswich yesterday. They said that they would appeal to the State police for aid.

Police Chief Daniel Wells of Ipswich is co-operating with the State police in trying to run down the death car.

Pieces of glass found near the dying Griffin are evidently from a side light that was shattered when the accident occurred. The size and thickness of the glass indicate to Chief Wells that this was a light car, possibly of a runabout model. Inquiry concerning autos that passed over Dobson's Hill about the time of the accident have revealed two or three cars of the type which the chief has in mind. He was busy today following these clews.

Regarding the work of the State police in the Ipswich case, Acting-Chief George C. Neal of that body said today:

"Men of the State police will be assigned by the local District Attorney's office, as in the other cases."

THREE RECENT VICTIMS.

The first victim of this triple string of death-car tragedies was three-year-old Hollis Travers of Weston, who was struck and killed by an automobile while walking with his ten-year-old sister on July 24. The driver fled. Inspector A. H. Gibson is on that case for the Highway Commission.

TEUTONS MENACE CZAR'S ARMY IN POLAND RETREAT

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The Teutonic allies have inflicted several defeats of tremendous importance on the Russians, with the result that today the forces of Grand Duke Nicholas appear to be in imminent peril of being caught within the jaws of the great German envelopment drive through Poland.

North of Lublin the Russian line has been pierced on a front of twenty-two miles, and the immediate effect is that the Austro-Germans under Archduke Ferdinand are making a dash toward Siedlce, a strategic railroad centre, in the hope of cutting off the escape of 200,000 of the Czar's troops.

The Germans have not only completely cut off Novo Georgievsk, last of the Russian fortresses on the Vistula River, but have also captured Praga, the easterly suburb of Warsaw, to which the Russians had retreated after the fall of the Polish capital.

TEUTONS ONLY TEN MILES FROM RAILWAY.

Field Marshal von Mackensen has driven the Russians across the Vieprz river in the southeast, and in the northeast the forces of General von Gallwitz, blasting their way by heavy gunfire have reached a point within ten miles of the Warsaw-Petrograd railway. This railroad is one of the two last avenues of escape for the fleeing Russians.

British military experts admit that the German victories, announced today, are of the utmost significance in the Kaiser's aim to envelop the Russian armies.

At no time within the past few weeks has the feeling here been so pessimistic with regard to the fate of the Russian armies. Yesterday's Petrograd reports led to an optimism which has given way completely before the news of the latest Teutonic gains.

GRAVE DANGER IN RETREAT.

Of the new successes claimed by the Teutons, the greatest danger to the Russians lies in the nearness of Von Gallwitz with his 200,000 men to the Warsaw-Petrograd railway and in the route north of Lublin.

One ray of hope comes from Petrograd, which states that the Germans have evacuated Bunsk, Courland, and have retreated to Mitau. Petrograd experts say the German campaign in the Baltic region has utterly failed.

Vienna reports the Austro-Germans winning north of Lublin, and says the Slav troops in that section, divided and retreating, are threatened with disaster.

It is stated the Austro-Germans are advancing through the twenty-two-mile gap between Lubartow and Baranow and have taken, within the past thirty-six hours, at least 10,000 Russian prisoners.

PETROGRAD LIVES ON HOPE.

This breach is the result of a desperate attack made by the Russians yesterday at Miechow. Vienna's claim of an utter rout of the Russians in this section is met by the Russian

DEMAND 'TEETH' IN NEXT NOTE TO ENGLAND

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Southern cotton interests, facing the problem of marketing the new crop, will try and force President Wilson's hand. They admit that they do not believe that his forthcoming note to Great Britain will have teeth in it. They plan a nation-wide agitation in compel the administration to put the question of the freedom of the seas squarely up to Congress.

The plan is to call a convention in Washington early next month. Those present will be the United States Senators, leading Representitves and Governors of all of the cotton-growing States. Leading national organizations of importers and exporters will be invited to be represented.

The convention will then review the situation and call upon the President to bring Congress to his aid and enact legislation directed against all belligerents who "interfere with American trade in neutral countries."

Just how successful such a move could be no one can say. Most of the participants, however, will be Democrats who will have much to do with the re-nomination and re-election—if that is to come—of the President. Because they realize this, some of the promoters of the plan are hopeful that it will succeed.

The President will retains the tentative draft of the note to Great Britain. It will be submitted to a Cabinet session when the reports from Mexico arrive. Meanwhile, at least one Cabinet member is preparing an independent memorandum to read at this session. He has compiled figures showing that in every neutral country where England complains American trade has increased the same condition applies to Great Britain.

The President will be urged to make this point the strongest factor in his new note to back up the American claim that Great Britain is trying to gobble up both German and American trade in Holland and the Scandinavian countries.

GERMANS RUSH TO CLOSE RING ON SLAVS

report that the retreating troops are amply protected by other troops withdrawing eastward from Ivangorod.

Today's developments indicate a serious menace lie only of the Warsaw-Petrograd railroad, but two of the Warsaw-Siedlice railway, the only other line open to the retreating Russians.

The Berlin official statement today says the Germans are pressing closer to Kovno, the great fortress on the Niemen River which guards the railway from Vilna to Petrograd.

In the fighting near Kovno the Germans have taken 120 prisoners, and near Lomnitz they claim to have captured 2,400 more.

TEUTONS PUSH FORWARD.

Today's news indicates that the Germans are making great strides toward their main object—the capture or annihilation of the main Russian armies. By occupying Prasnysz and cutting Novo Georgievsk off from the east, the Germans have cleared their way for a rapid pursuit of the fleeing enemy.

The capture of Kovno would result in the destruction of the main avenue of the Russians retreat, while Von Mackensen and his Austrians allies can plunge forward toward Brest-Litovsk, the key to the second line of Russian defences.

GAP IN CIRCLE AROUND RUSSIANS NOW ONLY 75 MILES

By FREDERICK WERNER,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—The gap in the iron circle which Austro-German forces are forging around the Russian army in the sector of Wa.Warsaw is now only seventy-five miles wide, and each day sees it lessened.

German troops that crossed the Vistula near Warsaw are advancing, while the Russians are withdrawing their forces from Praga, to which point they retired after evacuating the Polish capital.

With Serock, at the junction of the Narew and Bug rivers, in possession of the army of General von Scholtz, the Teutonic forces are now driving against the Russian line south of Wyszkow.

Only six of the forts defending the Vistula river fortress are now tenable.

There has been no lessening in the vigor of the Austro-German offensive since the fall of Warsaw. If anything, it has been increased.

GIVE GROUND SLIGHTLY.

With the exception of the district immediately south of Riga progress is reported for the Austro-German forces from every part of the eastern battle front. North of the Eckau River General von Buelow weakened his forces in order to strengthen the army driving against the defences of the Warsaw-Petrograd railway east of Ponewjesh. Consequently the Germans had to give ground slightly before superior forces.

A steady advance northward is being maintained by the Austro-German forces of Archduke Joseph Ferdinand and Field Marshal von Mackensen, that are driving northward from the Lublin-Cholm line.

The use of gas flames has contributed largely to the success of the Germanic armies northeast of Warsaw. Weather conditions have favored the use of gases and they have been used extensively over a wide front. This has proved a great help in conserving the ammunition supplies of the Teutonic forces.

FIGHT WITH GASES.

The Russians have also attempted the use of poisonous fumes but, lacking the proper equipment, have been unsuccessful.

A great deal of damage has been done to Warsaw by Russian shells which were thrown across the Vistula by the Russians, but this is being repaired as quickly as possible.

Optimism is at the high water mark throughout Germany as a result of the great victories on the eastern theatre of war and numberless messages of congratulation are being sent to Field-Marshal von Hindenburg and Field Marshal von Mackensen.

There will probably be a triumpant State entry into Warsaw at a later date, when the Kaiser will ride at the head of the imperial troops.

CZAR 'REJECTS AN OFFER OF PEACE'

Boston American and London Daily Telegraph Exclusive Cable Service.

PETROGRAD, Aug. 9.—From absolutely trustworthy sources the Bourse Gazette states last week Emperor William, through the King of Denmark, offered the Russians terms of peace. The reply of the Czar to the monarch's letter was the categorical declaration that there could be no question of peace negotiations.

Having failed to carry out her original program of crushing France in the first few months of the war, Germany is straining every nerve to eliminate Russia in order to be able to concentrate all her energies in the west.

CONGRESSMAN FLAYS WILSON FOR REFUSING TO SEE LABOR

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—Representative Frank Buchanan of Illinois, now head of the movement on part of certain representatives of organised labor to have the United States place an embargo on munitions to the warring European belligerents, bitterly criticised the refusal of President Wilson to grant an audience to the labor leaders who have applied for one. Buchanan, in correspondence with Secretary Tumulty, refuses to accept the latter's explanation that the President did not have time to hear the labor men. Buchanan declares the administration "seems more anxious to learn the wishes of big business than of organized wage workers."

The correspondence between Tumulty and Buchanan was today made public at the White House.

In the letter sent by Tumulty to Buchanan following the request of the latter for an audience with President Wilson, at which "labor's peace council" could make plain its position on the best plan for bringing about peace, the President's secretary states that President Wilson has been so occupied with the developments in the international situation that demand an immediate response that he could not receive Buchanan and his associates.

This, Tumulty is told by Buchanan, is no reason at all. The Illinois Representative declares emphatically that the administration seems to be more anxious to receive "the suggestions of the subsidized press" than the opinion of the men who represent the wishes of the people of the United States and sharply criticizes the effort of the administration to keep from knowing just what the viewpoint of organised labor really is.

In reply Tumulty sent a letter o Buchanan in which he declared that he considered the inferences drawn from the refusal of the President to meet him (Buchanan) unwarranted and declared that he resented them, saying:

"I received your letter of the 27th of July and beg to say that I resent the tone of it and the unwarranted inferences you have drawn by reason of the Presidents inability to confer with you as the representative of labor's peace plans in out on the date requested."

Tumulty then declared that so far as he was concerned there was no objection to Buchanan making any statement he might desire, and that it was stated here today that the latter will within the next few days make public correspondence which he claims bears out the charges he makes in his letter.

The text of the Buchanan letter to Secretary Tumulty was as follows:

HITS AT WILSON.

Chicago, Ill., July 28.

Dear Mr. Tumulty:

Your favor of the 24th duly received, and to put the situation mildly was decidedly disappointing in character. The information it contained, although courteously phrased, could not and did not alter the inference forced by the statement made.

Your intimation that the President's time was so fully taken up with matters of pressing importance that he could not grant an audience to representatives of labor—that has made the United States the proud nation that it is—in order to permit them in person to demonstrate that the subsidized press, which is seeking to serve as the volunteer adviser of the President, was misrepresenting labor's attitude in the present crisis, is tantamount to a declaration that the President is more concerned about the desires of big business than he is to discover the heartfelt sentiment of the common people.

"As is well known, I, by the vote of the people, was taken from the ranks of America's toilers to serve them in the halls of Congress and as their representative to voice their opinion on national questions.

As a trades unionist I found that the first lesson taught by organised labor was to implant in the hearts and minds of its members the ethics of humanity and the sacredness of human life. War is generally regarded by the common people, who are its only victims, as legalised murder on a wholesale plan, which all the sophistries of demagogues can never invest, and yet the President cannot find time to listen to thosew ho desire peace because he is completely occupied by those who apparently desire war.

REVIEWS DEMANDS.

I thank you, Mr. Tumulty, for your candor. My duty to those I serve leaves me no alternative but to say that as long as they, the people whom I serve, continue to be united in their belief that progress and prosperity is dependent upon religious observance of the scriptural admonition "and they shall beat their swords into plough shares and their spears into pruning hooks, nation shall not lift up swords against nation, neither shall they learn war any more," just so long shall I continue to read at the door of the president's private chambers to secure admittance for delegations of workers who not only desire peace at home but peace abroad as well.

I again urge upon you to again present to the President my desire for a conference and inform him that if I am to be denied the courtesy so liberally accorded to congressmen speaking for big business, I shall be reluctantly forced to advise the public of my position in the premises through the medium of an open letter.

Awaiting your reply, I have the honor of being very truly yours.

FRANK BUCHANAN.

HUNT FOR AUTO SLAYERS TO BE STATE WIDE

On August 4 William H. Conway of No. 287 Water street, Quincy, a laborer supporting a wife and four children on $10 a week, was killed in Quincy square by an automobile, whose driver fled.

Inspector E. L. Hilsh was assigned by the Highway Commission to this case. In this and the Weston case the drivers of the death cars are still to be found.

In the punishment of drunken autoists the Highway Commission today revoked the auto license of David Bordelau of No. 33 Race street, Lowell. He was fined $50 in Lowell District Court Friday for operating a car while under the influence of liquor and was given time to raise the money for the fine. The Highway Commission received an abstract of the court proceedings today and revoked Bordelau's license.

In the District Court at Attleboro today John J. Rigby of Mansfield was fined $100 and sentenced to jail for a month by Magistrate Bryan on a charge of operating an auto while under the influence of liquor. On a drunkenness charge Rigby was fined $15. Rigby paid the two fines. The jail sentence was suspended. The police said Rigby drove his machine into a telephone pole at Mansfield.

AID FOR CONWAY FAMILY.

The AMERICAN has received a check for $5 as a contribution for the family of William H. Conway, the Quincy victim, from Lawrence F. Quigley of No. 100 Broadway, Chelsea. Mr. Quigley wrote:

"The constant recurrence of such accidents in our Commonwealth is much to be regretted. The action of the occupant or occupants of the machine, in riding away and leaving a fatally injured man in the roadway, is absolutely criminal. While an accident of this kind is sometimes unavoidable the riding away of the driver of the car, who might have hardly rushed the injured man to a hospital, when the lapse of minutes alone measured the time between life and death, should be held by the law of our State to be plain homicide. I believe the time is ripe for the passing of drastic legislation. I believe the autoist who deliberately rides away should be held as a murderer . . . I hope that a paper that has done so much for the public good as has the Boston AMERICAN will be the journalistic pioneer in such a crusade."

HARVARD CASE WATCHED.

The Highway Safety League, of which Moorfield Storey is president and Attorney Lawrence G. Brooks is secretary-treasurer, is watching the case of Ellsworth F. Fraser, 23 years old, a student at the Harvard Summer School, who was sentenced to a month in jail by Associate Judge Stone of Cambridge District Court for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Frazer appealed. Secretary-Treasurer Brooks says:

"The issue of these appealed cases we intend to watch to learn the outcome of it in the upper court."

The arrest last Friday of the amazing fact that, although Charles J. Lyons, a South End business man, was adjudged guilty in Boston Municipal Court on October 23, 1913, of driving an automobile while intoxicated and his case has not yet been disposed of in the higher court, he has had his auto license from the Highway Commission since January 13, 1914.

Lyons was said by counsel to be a South End liquor dealer and also to have been in the real estate business. He gave Hereford street as his address. The Boston City Directory now shows a Charles J. Lyons at No. 45 Hereford street, Back Bay.

CASE OF C. J. LYNCH.

Lynch is sixty-two years old. He was driving through Scollay square on the wrong side of the street, according to the evidence. His car struck the wagon of Lewis Christoforo of No. 13 Devonshire street, Boston. Christoforo was thrown out. He complained of internal injuries. Again starting up, Lynch's car struck Joseph P. Sullivan, forty-one years, of No. 12 Taylor street, Boston. Sullivan was seriously hurt. An angry crowd gathered. Lynch was taken by the police. In Boston Municipal Court he was fined $200 and sentenced to one month in the House of Correction after being adjudged guilty of driving his car while intoxicated. He appealed.

Lynch's auto license was automatically suspended. He was given a hearing by the Highway Commission on November 5, 1913. His license was restored on Jan. 13, 1914.

Chairman Sohier of the Highway Commission says of Lynch's license restoration:

"We investigated his case and found to our satisfaction that the man had not been drinking."

Assistant District Attorney Webber says:

"The Highway Commission restored Lynch's license over the protest of the District Attorney's Office. We have been trying to get Lynch into court to prosecute him, but physicians appointed by the court say that he has been too ill to appear. Lynch should never have been granted his license again, because his case has not been disposed of by the court and because physicians say he is too ill to appear in court and so he must be too ill to drive a car. We intend to prosecute him if it takes a lifetime."

At Old Town Me., an auto containing five men was struck by a Bangor & Aroostook train. Ralph J. Carney, driver of the car, was killed. The other occupants, Charles Libby, Lyndon Carney, Willard Bragg and Louis Carney were seriously injured.

Near Keene, N. H., an auto went over a bridge into a river. Henry Holden of Claremont, N. H., was killed. His companions, Harold Flint, Ralph C. Paine and Paul Ninau, were hurt.

A machine driven by L. W. Taylor went over an embankment at Brookfield. Arthur Chapon of Milford was killed and Taylor and another passenger were hurt.

Manuel Sylvia of No. 219 Havre street, East Boston, was riding a bicycle on Wellington Bridge when he collided with an auto driven by Arthur Richards of No. 557 Shawmut avenue, Roxbury. Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Rosenblatt of No. 13 Devonshire street, Roxbury, who were in the car, were hurt. Richards is under arrest and Sylvia in dying.

MAYNARD WOMAN HURT.

A wheel on the machine occupied by John Wollenciel of Maynard collapsed near Hudson. Mrs. Wollenciel is at the Marlboro Hospital, where it is feared she will die.

Walter A. Smith of No. 3 Maplelef road, Worcester, was hurt when his motorcycle and an auto operated by Joseph Roberts of No. 11 Greenwich street, Springfield.

F. Zoglio of Cambridge tried to pass a car driven by Joseph R. Chase of No. 48 Walnut street, Dorchester, on Nantasket avenue, Nantasket. The wheels caught and both cars struck a stone wall. The occupants of both cars were shaken up and Mr. Chase's daughter, three, was badly cut.

MINISTER AIDS BOY.

Bernard Zollotte, nineteen, of No. 19 Hollander street, Roxbury, ran into the roadguard of an automobile operated by Joseph La Pinat of No. 25 Eddy street, Mansfield, on Shore Drive, Winthrop. Zollotte suffered injuries to his chest.

The Rev. Alfred Smith of Newburg, N. Y., brother of John Hamilton Smith, into the office of Dr. W. D. Harris at Lynn. The Rev. Mr. Smith said his brother, the Rev. Mr. Smith, the child was not seriously hurt.

POINTS WAY TO SAFE HIGHWAYS

Lawrence G. Brooks, secretary and treasurer of the Highway Safety League, made public today a statement discussing automobile lawlessness.

He said the police were losing ground in their fight to make the highways safe because of "inadequate handling of lawbreakers and incomplete regulation of motor vehicles."

He said:

"Why are the authorities rapidly losing ground in their fight for safety on the highways? Inadequate handling of lawbreakers and incomplete regulation of motor vehicles tell the story.

"Lower courts, with the exception of a few flabby judges, do fairly well. Upper courts, on the other hand, through the agencies of the district attorneys, file, nol pros or dispose cases to a degree which makes them a negligible factor in the matter of discipline.

"The Highway Commission, by its control over operators' licenses, exercises a very salutary influence on the situation, but one which might be far greater were the commission to apply really drastic treatment to those admitted wrongdoers who come before it. Too often it loses sight of the public welfare in its judgment on perhaps pathetic, but nevertheless incompetent, operators.

"Furthermore, speaking solely at the offender, the commission does not consider the affect of his punishment upon operators at large. In short, neither the courts nor the Highway Commission are sufficiently feared by wrongdoers.

"That regulation is so incomplete arises primarily from the fact that the present arrangement of the affairs of the Highway Commission precludes anything different. Faced by a problem large and difficult enough to occupy its exclusive attention, the commission is forced to employ much of its time on other matters. Working as diligently as possible, it only partially covers the automobile field. Until it is in a position to know something about the fitness of applicants to receive licenses and to investigate more than a small proportion of the accidents which come to its attention, the control of the commission over the automobile situation will remain inadequate.

"To sum up: Insist that the courts and the Highway Commission prescribe higher standards of care for automobile operators and that they punish offenders in a way to inspire a wholesome respect for the authorities. Give to the Highway Commission or some other department the sole business of regulating motor vehicles."

HOLD NAVY YARD SERVICES FOR HAITI VICTIMS

A military funeral was today given the two American sailors killed in the recent occupation of Port-au-Prince, Haiti, by a force of sailors and marines from the U. S. S. Washington.

The services were held in a drizzling rain on dock No. 6 at the Charlestown Navy Yard.

The flag-draped caskets of Carson S. Whitehurst of Norfolk, Va., and William Gompers of Brooklyn, N. Y., both of the cruiser Washington, were laid side by side on the dock. On each was a small bunch of asters, the tribute of an aged Charlestown woman, widow of a Civil War veteran. She called herself the "Mother of the army and navy boys."

The services were in charge of Rear Admiral Caperton of the Washington and Commandant Rush of the navy yard, and were conducted by the Rev. B. G. Deloper of the Old Soldiers' Home, Chelsea. There were players, a eulogy and Scripture reading.

Hundreds of sailors and marines stood bared heads. A volley was fired over the caskets by a company from the U. S. S. Georgia. The services closed with the sounding of "taps" and the playing of "Nearer, My God, to Thee" by the Georgia's band.

The bodies were then placed in two hearses, draped with flags and escorted by sailors and marines to the South station. The crowds along the route stood bareheaded as the cortege passed. The bodies will be sent home by train. "Taps" were again sounded at the station before the escort returned to the navy yard.

FIFTH AVENUE NO PLACE FOR BLIND MEN THESE DAYS

Miss Louise White, dressed as shown, was photographed on Fifth Avenue. Her stockings were rolled down to her ankles, the newest fad. Her smile did not outdo those of other pedestrians.

BROWN © INT. NEWS SERVICE.

New York has been afflicted from time to time with many freakish fashions, but this would seem to be close to the limit. The novel spectacle of Miss Louise White, a very pretty girl, sauntering leisurely along with her stockings rolled down to her ankles, leaving a goodly display of bare white leg below her skirt hem, is startling, to say the least.

It has been the fad at the beaches this Summer for the fair sex to promenade with their stockings arranged thusly, but, seen on Fifth avenue, the effect is somewhat different. Much color the girls acclaim this foot fashion for themselves.

Wennerberg Talks on U. S. Peace Plans

F. W. Wennerberg of Boston College, prize orator at the Lake Mohonk conference, spoke on the Common for the Massachusetts branch of the Woman's Peace party. He said the two most significant events of recent times occurred on this side of the Atlantic; the foundation of the league to enforce peace and President Wilson's call for a Pan-American conference to discuss the Mexican situation.

Shoots Self While Cleaning Revolver

While cleaning his revolver, Loretto Mazella, fifty-five, of No. 76 Chapel street, Nonantum, shot himself in the abdomen. At the Newton Hospital it is said he will recover.

Many a Business Man who is careful to protect himself in money matters, is careless about health—his most valuable asset.

For many, coffee drinking silently undermines health, because each cup contains about 2½ grains of the cumulative, harmful drug, caffeine.

Five to six grains of caffeine will kill a rabbit or a cat, and repeated daily will cripple a man.

How cripple a man? The caffeine, little by little, causes hardening of the arteries and premature old age, showing more in some than in others.

Some of the symptoms of caffeine poisoning are headache, nervousness, biliousness, heart flutter, sleeplessness at night, and "fag" after coffee's reaction in the daytime.

The way to avoid all coffee troubles is to leave coffee alone and use

South Shore Society Making Ready for Scituate 'Jam-Bo-Ree'

Down at Scituate on Friday, August 13, a group of charitable young women are to give a "Jam-Bo-Ree." It is to benefit the Church of the Nativity. Therefore, the fact that it is to fall on "Friday the Thirteenth" doesn't count. The date holds no terror for the very practical young women promoters.

The festivities are to be held at the Scituate Women's Club, in the evening. A special train will leave the South station at 6:16 p. m. and return at 11 p. m. Mrs. Jacques Futrelle, widow of the author, has charge. She is being assisted by Mrs. Warren Hunt of North Scituate and Mrs. John A. Sullivan and Mrs. Walter Haynes of Egypt.

The Jam-Bo-Ree girls are to be Miss Virginia Futrelle, Miss Louise Hill and Miss Dorothy Barrett. Mr. and Mrs. Jay Rogers Benton are to take part. The nature of the program is being kept a secret. It is to be a smart society affair and for a worthy cause.

Boy Egg Hunter Is Electrocuted

SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 9.—George Rovitti, eight, of No. 156 Cedar street, while hunting birds' nests, seized a charged wire and was electrocuted. The lad was attempting to reach a nest that was perched in the eaves of a blacksmith shop. He had climbed a fence and seized the wire to pull himself up on to the roof. The wire carried a direct feed to the city transformer.

Dog in Fit Bites South Boston Man

WORCESTER, Aug. 9.—Morris Hennessey of No. 81 First street, South Ashburnham, was bitten by a dog that was running amuck on Front street. Hennessey was attacked by the scattering of persons at Spring and Front streets. A bulldog raced madly up and had a fit. Hennessey threw a dish of water on the animal. The dog bit him in the hand.

INDICTED MEN TO ATTEND REVERE CITY SESSION

A large detail of police will be at the Revere City Hall tonight to prevent any demonstration at the regular meeting of the council, five members of which were indicted Saturday on the charge of taking graft from junk men.

The indicted councilmen—Benjamin F. Sias, John L. Balsell, Frank J. Sullivan, William W. Gordon and Jacob Mendoza—say they will attend the meeting.

Mayor Arthur H. Curtis, who brought to the attention of the District Attorney the charges resulting in the indictments, said today that conditions in Revere were sure to improve under the city form of government adopted six months ago.

"There have always been rumors of graft in the Revere government," he declared. "If there has been grafting, it will probably cease now.

"I shall spare no effort to make Revere an ideal city. With a good board of councilmen to co-operate with me, Revere shall be made the best city of its size in the country.

"When Revere was a town, appropriations for the different departments always ran out before the middle of the year, necessitating a special town meeting to provide additional appropriations. This year departments received the same appropriations as under town government. Yet not one appropriation has run out, and reports indicate that no additional appropriation will be necessary.

"Last year the tax rate was $23.60. This year it will probably be around $25.

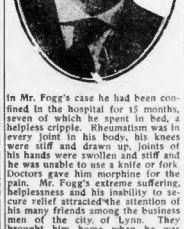
EX-MAYOR BECOMES INTERESTED IN SUFFERING OF FELLOW CITIZEN

Confident of Value of Var-ne-sis in Case of Rheumatism of 20 Years

When the Mayor of a busy city takes the time to become interested in the suffering of a fellow citizen and has such confidence in a remedy that he takes him from the hospital, it is very evident that the Mayor is a man with a heart and has the courage of his convictions. James E. Rich, while Mayor of Lynn, Mass., is the man, and the following is a description of the case he became interested in:

Mr. L. E. Fogg, who lives at 150 Williams avenue, Lynn, Mass., suffered from rheumatism and rheumatic neuritis on and off for 20 years, and when the Mayor and other prominent business men became interested



In Mr. Fogg's case he had been confined in the hospital for 15 months, seven of which he spent in bed, a helpless cripple. Rheumatism was in every joint in his body, his knees were stiff and drawn up, joints of his hands were swollen and stiff and he was unable to use a knife or fork. Doctors gave him morphine for the pain. Mr. Fogg's extreme suffering, helplessness and his inability to secure relief attracted the attention of his many friends among the business men of the city of Lynn. They brought him home when he was helpless, confined to a chair, and started him taking Var-ne-sis; in six months' time he was able to go to work and has never lost a day since except for an injury he received. Mr. Fogg's work necessitates him standing all day.

Wm. F. Gallagher of Baker's Shoe Store, 101 Monroe St., Lynn, knew Mr. Fogg for a number of years, and says:

"I brought a pair of slippers to Mr. Fogg when he was in the hospital, his feet were so large on account of the swelling that they had to be made up specially. They were 12½ inches long and measured 15 inches over the instep. He was unable to get up when I saw him, and when he attempted it he found it was impossible; his hands were swollen badly and he was unable to raise them to his head. When he was brought back I saw them carry him in a chair from the automobile. I met Mr. Fogg on the street a short time ago and I think it remarkable that this man is able to enjoy life after going through what he has. I really never believed he would be well again."

Mr. Edward Harris of 79 Williams avenue, Lynn, Mass., called on Mr. Fogg in the hospital and described his condition as she saw him. She said:

"I asked the attendants if Mr. Fogg could get up. They said no, but I insisted, and in attempting to get his clothes on he fainted three times, he was unable to walk except bent over and putting all his weight on his toes, a nurse and attendant on each side held him up. His knees at this time were drawn up. Shortly after he came home he was able to go up and down stairs on his hands and knees. I see him almost every day and one could never believe he is the same man I saw in the hospital. Only a short time ago I saw him running."

Deputy Sheriff Frank E. Wells, 313 Union St., Lynn, Eugene B. Fraser, treasurer Lynn Gas and Electric Co., and ex-Mayor Rich, who lives on Gardner St., Lynn, also recite the condition Mr. Fogg was in and think his recovery remarkable.

W. A. Varney of Lynn, Mass., the discoverer of Var-ne-sis, said:

"Surely no one can doubt the veracity of such prominent business men, and I appreciate their confidence in the remedy and their kindness in being so outspoken. I also recite the men and women will realize that I dare not make these statements if they were not true and I count investigation at all times. Var-ne-sis stands for Ver-ac-ity, the truth always. In convinced that I have found the preparation that the public has been looking for. Var-ne-sis is not a cure-all. It's a preparation for rheumatism of the joints and muscles. I would like to send my newspaper devoted to rheumatics as well as the story of how I discovered this medicine to every suffering man and woman. Just address W. A. Varney, 25 Hamilton Ave., Lynn, Mass. Var-ne-sis Boston office, 140 Boylston St.

GORIZIA LAID IN WASTE BY GUNS OF ITALY

By BRIXTON D'ALLAIRE.
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

ROME, Aug. 9.—The Austrian city of Gorizia, against the defences of which the Italian army has been pounding for many weeks, has been practically destroyed by the shells of King Victor Emmanuel's artillery.

According to all the indications the great battle which has been raging for possession of Gorizia is rapidly drawing into its final stage. Dispatches from the front today stated that the Austrians' defence was growing more feeble, and that the efficient fire of the Italian artillery men was preventing ammunition and supplies from being taken into the fortress.

BUILDINGS ARE DESTROYED.

Buildings in all parts of the city have been battered into ruins. The streets are full of debris. The 10,000 persons in the city—left out of a population of 40,000—are living in cellars and dugouts.

The remaining forts and redoubts are being smashed by the steady fire from the Italian mortars.

The civic and religious authorities have fled the city. Lawlessness is rampant. Mobs attacked the residences of the wealthy and also the municipal storehouses and markets in a fight for bread, but none was to be had. Meat is unobtainable.

The roads leading into the city from the East are under fire of the Italian guns and supplies cannot be taken into the beleaguered stronghold from that quarter.

Artillery fire directed from Italian guns that had been dragged 10,000 feet up the precipes and crags of the Tyrolean Alps have driven the Austrians from their positions around the pass of Montozzo. This is announced in official dispatches received today from main headquarters at Bologna.

DRIVEN FROM PEAKS.

Italian Alpine troops advancing from Tonale Pass captured the Pass of Montozzo. Driving the Austrians from the peaks of the neighboring heights, the Italians, with laborious efforts, dragged their guns to the summits and opened fire upon the trenches which the Austrians still retained in that region. They rincipal Austrian defensive works in that section were at Malga Palu.

Czar's Munitions Are Found to Be Rubbish

LONDON, Aug. 9.—"Thousands of cases of ammunition of every kind when opened at the front were found to contain rubbish," says the Daily Mail, in an account of the conditions under which the Russian army has been fighting.

VOL. 1. BOSTON, 9 AGOSTO, 1915. NO. 41.

Gorizia quasi distrutta, vicino a cadere in mano degli Italiani.

La Presa di Puntacavallo

Le truppe alpine, avanzando fra picchi altissimi di rocce lungo la valle del Monte, sorpresero gli austriaci a Puntacavallo, assalirono le loro trincee e catturarono, oltre a numerosi prigionieri, munizioni e viveri in gran quantita.

Le truppe italiane, hanno pure fatto dei progressi importanti sulla vallata Sexten, dopo un fuoco nutrito di artiglieria, riuscendo a raggiungere la vetta di Montenero fino a Burgstal.

GLI ITALIANI AVANZANO SI TRE FRONTI.

ROMA, 8 agosto. — Dal bollettino odierno del Generale Cadorna si rileva che gli italiani avanzano su tre fronti ad occidente della frontiera del Tirolo, nella vallata Sexten, e sull'Isono.

Il movimento avviluppante contro Gorizia procede rapidamente a dispetto del fuoco micidialissimo dei nemici. I combattimenti piu' violenti attorno a detta regione si combattono dalla parte a sud di detta citta', e gli italiani

Roma, 9 Agosto. — La citta' di Gorizia contro le cui difese l'esercito italiano da diverse settimane combatte, e stata praticamente distrutta dalle granate dell'artiglieria italiana.

Secondo tutte le indicazioni, la grande battaglia che si sta combattendo per il possesso di Gorizia, rapidamente volge allo stadio finale. Telegrammi dal fronte oggi asseriscono che la difesa Austriaca e sempre piu' debole e che il fuoco efficientissimo dell'artiglieria Italiana ha impedito che delle provviste di munizioni e viveri giungessero agli Austriaci delle forteze.

I fabbricati in ogni parte della citta', sono ridotti a cumoli di rovine; le strade piene di macerie. I cittadini residenti della citta', i soli rimasti da una popolazione di 40,000, si sono rincatucciati nei bassamenti e sotterranei.

La caduta di Gorizia e' imminente.

GLI AUSTRIACI IN TERRITORIO ITALIANO!

Secondo un telegramma da fonte Austriaca, gli Austriaci hanno varcato i confini d'Italia.

dirigono i loro cannoni da grosso calibro contro le fortezze per impedire i movimenti delle masse di fanteria nemica.

Dal bollettino si rileva altresi che gli austriaci hanno fatto degli inutili contro-attacchi contro la regione di monte Nero e sull'altipiano Carso.

Rovereto Bombardata

Londra, 8 Agosto.—Gli Italiani hanno oggi iniziato l'offensiva nel Trentino, col bombardamento, a mezzo dei loro grossi cannoni d'assedio, delle fortezze di Rovereto. Le sole giudiziarie sono state distrutte, nonche' due stazioni ferroviarie ed altri danni gravissimi sono stati causati ad altri fabbricati.

GERMANS TAKE OFFENSIVE ON WHOLE LINE

By FRANKLIN P. MERRICK.
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

PARIS, Aug. 9.—A general offensive all along the line on the western battle front has been begun by the Germans, it is announced in an official communique issued by the French War Office today.

The fighting is particularly violent north of Souches, in Artois, where the French positions were bombarded with extreme violence. Attempts of the Germans to leave their trenches to deliver an infantry attack with the bayonet were repulsed, the War Office says.

Strong artillery and infantry attacks are being launched by the Germans against the Belgian and the French positions.

The general offensive in the western front has developed from two local movements directed against the Belgian positions on the Yser and the French positions west of Verdun in the Argonne forest.

Terrific artillery fire is being directed against the allies' trenches all along the line. Redoubts, blockhouses, observation posts, wire entanglements and, in fact, every obstruction that might give shelter, is being shelled by the German guns.

Assaults are being delivered by the Teutonic forces all the way from the North Sea to Lower Alsace.

Before the regular daily communique was issued the French War Office gave out a statement denying claims of victories recently made by the German general staff. According to this statement all German attacks in the Argonne up to August 7 were repulsed with heavy losses, except at one point, where a portion of a trench was lost.

The statement declares that the number of prisoners claimed by the Germans is three times the real number. Denial is also made of German claims in the Vosges. It is stated that no French aeroplane was shot down there by the Germans, as claimed in Berlin.

The dispatch says also that the exchange of Austrian and Russian prisoners will begin next month.

"FRAMERS OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE U.S.A." NO. 9

Charles Carroll of Carrollton, Md.
"Father of Religious Liberty in America"

HISTORY proves, to their eternal honor, that the Catholics were the first in America to advocate the Freedom of all sects to worship at any shrine they chose to bend a knee. Of all the cavaliers of Maryland, none were more noble, and none adored Liberty more than Charles Carroll, who, with his kinsman, Archbishop John Carroll, strove for the hereditary rights of mankind to practice Civil and Religious Liberty. Carroll was one of the richest and most learned men in the Colonies, and when he proudly affixed his name to our immortal Declaration of Independence he courted the confiscation of his vast estates. A bystander facetiously remarked, as he did so, "There goes a few millions." He was elected to the National Convention which adopted the Constitution of the United States, but illness forbade his attendance. His cousin, though, Daniel Carroll, signed our National Law, which forever guarantees to Americans Civil, Religious and Personal Liberty. Carroll's manners were easy, affable and graceful; in all the elegancies of polite society few men were his superiors. His hospitality was nothing short of royal, and he was a lifetime user of light wines and barley brews. He died in his 95th year, the last survivor of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and was looked upon with reverential regard by rich and poor alike. Fifty-eight years ago Anheuser-Busch launched their great institution, and have always brewed honest beers—the kind the illustrious Carroll loved to quaff. Day by day their famous brews have grown in popular favor until 7500 people are constantly employed to keep pace with the public demand. Their great brand —BUDWEISER—because of its quality, purity, mildness and exquisite flavor, exceeds the sale of all other beers by millions of bottles.

MRS. BURNS IS SANE; TO STAND DEATH TRIAL

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 9.—Superintendent F. S. Bancroft of the Concord State Hospital announced today that Mrs. Mary A. Burns of Nottingham, who is under indictment for the murder of her husband, Frank A. Burns, by poison on December 22, 1914, was sane. This means that the woman, who was committed to the hospital on May 27 for observation, will be returned to this city to stand trial for murder at the October term of Rockingham Superior Court.

Mrs. Burns is fifty-five years old. When Burns died under suspicious circumstances his stomach was sent to the Harvard Medical School for analysis. Report came back that cyanide of potassium was found. The wife was indicted, but was subsequently committed to the State hospital for examination upon recommendation of a medical commission.

The State alleges that Mrs. Burns put poison in her husband's liquor.

Finds Noah Ate Apple We Have Blamed on Adam

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—Noah ate that apple that's been blamed on Adam and Eve all these years. This is disclosed through the translation by Dr. Steven Langdon of a tablet in the University of Pennsylvania Museum here. Dr. Langdon is professor of Assyriology in Oxford University, England.

The tree on which the apple grew was the cassia tree. The curse was that Noah should die in youth instead of living to a ripe old age of 50,000 years as had his ancestors.

The tablet sets the date of creation some 457,000 years ago. The flood occurred 452,000 years later. Ten Kings, reigning an average of 43,200 years, shared sovereignty in the interim. Then Noah came along and ate the apple, and longevity went out of fashion. Noah's apple diet is set at 55,000 B. C.

Dr. Langdon, according to an announcement made at the university, put in a lot of time figuring this out from the remarkable tablet. The tablet, he believes, was written between four and five thousand years ago.

COUNSEL DENY EATON CASE IS SETTLED

Counsel on both sides of the Eaton divorce case today denied that the case had been settled out of court, or that Charles S. Eaton, owner of Thompson's Spa, had decided to give his second wife, Mrs. Ella F. Bartlett Eaton, $100,000 in cash, the marble palace in Pasadena, known as "The Kholla" and $10,000 annually.

"Not a word of truth in it," said Charles F. Choate, counsel for Mrs. Eaton, when seen at his office in the Merchants Bank Building, No. 26 State street, and beyond that Mr. Choate refused to talk.

W. R. Sears of the firm of Whipple, Sears & Ogden, Tremont Building, counsel for Mr. Eaton said:

"You can state that there isn't the slightest foundation for the report published in a morning newspaper, and you may add that no settlement is pending. The case has been continued for trial."

Insane Quincy Man Battles with Six for an Hour

Otto Winquist, forty, a Quincy stonecutter, for nearly an hour resisted the efforts of six men to remove him from his home, No. 24 Curtiss street, when he became insane. Since his wife died, a few weeks ago, leaving several children, he has been morose.

Lieutenant Bishop, Sergeant Johnson and Patrolman Dhodge were summoned to Winquist's house by neighbors, who became alarmed at his outcries. The three policemen had more than their hands full in trying to subdue him, and they called upon three citizens to assist them.

Winquist was finally gotten aboard the police auto and strapped down. He was later sent to the Taunton institution.

Mme. Ganna Walska, Polish prima donna and widow of Russian officer, who is engaged to a prominent Brooklyn society man.

Lowell M. Palmer, Jr., a prominent Brooklyn society man, whose first wife, Amy Burnham Palmer of Portland, Me., divorced him six years ago, is engaged to marry Mme. Ganna Walska, a Polish prima donna, who made her American debut last April in the French opera-ita, "Mlle. Nitouche."

Mr. Palmer is president of the Palmer Lime and Cement Company at No. 102 Park avenue, Brooklyn. His father has wide financial interests and was formerly connected with the American Sugar Refining Company.

Mme. Walska is the widow of Baron Arcadie d'Eingorn, a Russian army officer.

Mr. Palmer was first married in Portland in 1899 and went to New York to live. Mrs. Palmer returned to her home in Portland after the divorce, and her husband made his home in New York.

In April, 1912, he brought an action to set aside the divorce on the ground that it had been won through collusion, and that his wife had connived his offences.

IS 51 YOUNG POLITICALLY?

Cushing's Claim as Candidate of Youngsters Starts Up the Gossips.

Hard to make out exactly what the line is, between Cushing and McCall, but it appears that Grafton claims to be the "young men's" candidate.

Somebody will have to explain just what a "young" man is, in politics.

Read somewhere, a week back, that on the occasion of his 51st birthday the tall and handsome Lieutenant-Governor was banqueted by friends in the town of Orange.

Is a man of fifty-one a youth in politics, and if so, why?

Which reminds us—without any desire to step into the ring and separate "Kid" Cushing and the "Veteran" Moses—that Governor David I. Walsh will not be forty-three until a few days after his 51rd election to the governorship.

* * *

Mr. Cushing, however, wrote yesterday to Congressman Augustus P. Gardner, his best known supporter, and on Mr. Cushing's letter, which was given to the press, we observe this paragraph:

"The character of my support and the character of the opposition to me leave no doubt in my mind that the hope of a revitalized and rejuvenated party spirit can be fulfilled at the present time only by the united efforts of the younger and more disinterested men of the Republican and of the progressive parties."

Mr. William Shaw, who will most likely be the gubernatorial nominee of the Democratic and maybe of the Progressives, has been "sizing up" his rivals—and some others—as to their attitude on the question of prohibiting the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquor. This is how Mr. Shaw sees them:

Governor Walsh has declared in favor of the present option law.

Candidate Samuel W. McCall mildly speaks of the harm done by the saloon and suggests a substitute.

Lieutenant - Governor Grafton D. Cushing advocates further education on the evils of the liquor traffic, but he carefully refrains from naming them.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge is silent, an unusual attitude for him on a great public issue.

Senator John W. Weeks, Massachusetts' Republican candidate for President, is against prohibition and equal suffrage.

"The tariff issue is raised," Mr. Shaw continued, speaking last night at Oak Bluffs, Martha Vineyard, at a meeting held under the auspices of the Martha Vineyard Association, "and voters are asked to sell their birthright for a full dinner pail. The taxation question is urged, and we are asked to continue to run our government on the bloody money received from liquor licenses. The sectarian bogey is raised, although the Constitution expressly forbids the appropriation of public funds for sectarian schools.

"Where do we as churchman stand on this great moral, social, economic and political issue?

"What is the use of praying about it and passing resolutions against it if we continue to elect the parties to power that stand for the present alliance with the liquor interests? We might just as well recognize the fact that the liquor traffic is in politics and that we have got to go where it is if we hope to destroy it. You are not asked to elect an individual. You are not asked to support a party. You are asked to stand for the principle, the annihilation of the liquor traffic, and to register your convictions at the only place where they can be effective, the ballot box."

Mr. Jacob C. Morse, once a reporter but now a broker in State street, will be a candidate in the primaries for nomination as State Auditor on the Democratic ticket. When he was known as "Jake" Morse, in the good old days when he covered baseball for the Herald, Mr. Morse was famous wherever in New England the boys played baseball. For years, and years, Jacob was secretary of the New England League. He is a nephew of the late Leopold Morse, the clothing merchant, one of the first of Boston Democrats to be sent to Congress.

Efforts are already being made by Republican stump followers to discredit the remarkable wholeheartedness and unanimity with which the leaders of all sections of the Boston Democracy cheered and indorsed, in the Sunday AMERICAN, Governor Walsh's modest announcement of his candidacy.

Every Democrat on the long list—a truly representative one—was glad to go on record and spoke with manifest pleasure. There was not one who "ducked." There was no hemming or hawing. The Democracy of Boston, and the Democracy of the State as well, faces the coming campaign confident of a record-breaking vote and complete success and with and for David I. Walsh to the last man.

It certainly means something in the way of party unity when Mayor Curley, former Mayor Fitzgerald, Hon. John A. Keliher, Congressman Peter F. Tague, Postmaster Murray, Congressman James A. Gallivan, City Clerk Donovan, former Senator James H. Doyle, Senator James P. Timilty, Public Service Commissioner Fred J. Macleod, Port Commissioner Joseph A. Conry, Representative Martin Lomasney, Harbor and Land Commissioner William S. McNary, Sheriff John Quinn and Surveyor of the Port Joseph A. Maynard express their joy and satisfaction with the announcement of one man's candidacy and pledge that gentleman their support.

The outlook today is that the "Boston Democrats" bogie will hardly last through another campaign.

Former Lieutenant-Governor Edward P. Barry, whom AMERICAN interviewers on Saturday night found inaccessible, came to bat today with the following:

It is all over but the shouting.

Boston Democratic Leaders Confident of a Record Vote for Walsh.

to turn away from Progressive doctrines, fly from the camp of Prohibition, and help the G-r-and Old Pahr-tay rescue Massachusetts from these dreadful Boston Democrats.

The while, perhaps, other Republican pleaders endeavor quietly to coax a lonesome Boston Democrat away, here and there, by pointing out to him that not all the Walsh appointees have been Boston men.

Letter to Wife Admits He Loves Another Better

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Mrs. Amy MacClinton, in a suit for a separation from Seth B. MacClinton, who is official stenographer for Stanley Dexter and head of the Putnam Reporting Company, at 28 Nassau street, submitted to Supreme Court Justice Weeks a signed statement by her husband in which he pledged himself as committed to a preference for Miss Edna Morton, who is employed as a stenographer in his office.

Mr. MacClinton has replied to his wife's charges of cruel and inhuman treatment, saying that "temperamental" differences are the source of their marital troubles. The statement, in which Miss Morton joins him, according to Mrs. MacClinton, says in part:

"We will submit to no final separation of any sort, whether a divorce results or not. We have carefully considered the future, and as both of us have passed the age of childhood, we feel that we can best judge whether happiness lies in that direction."

Justice Weeks has granted Mrs. MacClinton $20 a week alimony pending the trial of the suit.

McGraw Sweet on Becker.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 9.—Manager McGraw of the Giants, in verifying the reported purchase of Outfielder Martin Becker of the Lewiston (New England League) club, states that the results will report for duty September 5. Becker has been highly recommended to McGraw, and the New York manager is confident he is going to come through for him.

HARRY TUTHILL, trainer of the Detroit team, and Frank Mackin, the Philadelphia skull upholsterer, had a fanning bee at the Polo Grounds recently. They were telling old fight stories but Tuthill stopped Mackin with one of an incident he saw in Denver twelve years ago.

At that time Abe Attell had left Frisco and started East to make a million. Abe had barely enough change to break a quarter when he landed in Denver and there met Young Corbett and Jack Johnson, who were both in the same fix.

The trio of mutt slingers spent their evenings moaning. They had no place to go, nothing to spend and nothing in their stomachs but a wild desire to nab in fodder.

They agreed that if one of them should get a fight that he was to split the dough with the other two, and to hear Harry tell of it, they almost fought to get a fight.

At last Attell was offered a bout. He had the offer but was shy on scenery. Corbett and Johnson trained him and on the night of the fight the only thing he had to wear was a pair of tights belonging to Young Corbett and a pair of shoes belonging to Jack Johnson. Can you imagine a guy being clever wearing a pair of dogs belonging to Lil' Arthur.

Johnson and Corbett seconded Abe in the battle. He won and split the $30 three ways.

In after days each man annexed a title and bathed in the filthy lucre.

Talk about the aviator having his ups and downs—can you beat that tale of Corbett, Johnson and Attell?

Star Cuban Turns Down Fed Offer

LONG BRANCH, Aug. 9.—Fielder Jones, manager of the St. Louis Federals, has been negotiating with J. Calvo, centrefield of the Long Branch team, who was with Washington Americans last season. Jones has offered the Cuban a large salary to finish the season with his team with the added promise of a good contract for next year if he makes good. Calvo, who has batted .327 in games against big league teams, said today he would not jump organized baseball.

NEWARK TO STAGE 1916 TITLE MEET

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 9.—According to a telegram received by E. J. O'Brien from the championships committee of the A. A. U., the 1916 A. A. U. title meet will be held in Newark. O'Brien is chairman of exhibition and athletic committee of the committee of 100, which is handling the preparations for Newark's celebration next year of its 250th anniversary.

Frederick W. Rubien, executive secretary of the A. A. U. and a member of its championship committee, wired O'Brien from San Francisco that the championships Committee had adopted resolutions favoring Newark as the scene of next year's games.

This action by the committee is considered practically final. It is necessary yet for the board of governors of the association at its November meeting to give formal indorsement to the selection, and it is expected that the board will favor the committee's selection.

Wolverton Directs His Team by Wire

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 9.—Something new in baseball has been inaugurated by Harry Wolverton, manager of the San Francisco Pacific Coast league club. The former leader of the New York Yankees has been conducting the field campaign of the Seals from his bed by use of telephone and telegraph wires.

Wolverton, who was injured accidentally in an automobile accident some time ago, decided that he could manage his team just as well from the hospital bed as the bench. Wires were installed from the Seals' dugout at the baseball park to Wolverton's bedside, and he was kept informed of every move of the opposing teams. When his club was out of town a telegraph wire was substituted for the phone, and the disabled manager made suggestions, followed the play, and in general dictated the field policy of the Seals, in the same manner he would have had he been on the players' bench.

Giants Play Semi-Pros.

DETROIT, Aug. 9.—The New York Giants, with Schupp and Ritter pitching and most of the regulars in position, played the S. & S. semi-pros and won, 7 to 0. A crowd of 5,000 attended.

EVERS WILL NOT QUIT THE BRAVES

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 9.—"Battling Jawn" Evers of the Braves, will not quit the team Wednesday. The Trojan never said he would quit, but remarked upon leaving Chicago Saturday night he was so nervous he felt like stopping for a while.

"If President Gaffney and Manager Stallings say I am done ma, I will fight it out to the finish," said the Braves' captain today.

"I did not mean to give out the impression that I was going to quit.

"What I had in mind when, right after losing a hard game in Chicago, I gave out the statement, was that I felt like stopping. Not because I have been panned and fined and investigated. That's all part of the game, though I do feel that I have been getting more than my share of it.

"There is no fun to being called a scrapper and a roughneck and a rowdy. I have had plenty of arguments naturally, but I'll leave it to the baseball world if I have deliberately pulled any rough stuff. I have never spiked a player, and I have never hit anybody.

"What has been said lately has hurt a lot, but even at that it has nothing to do with my feelings. I am so nervous that I haven't been able to sleep for the last ten nights or so. My doctor told me after I got over pneumonia last Winter that my heart had been affected, and I think by the way I feel lately that he knew what he was talking about.

"I have my wife and my boy to look out for and they're more to me than all the money I can get out of the game. I do not want to quit now that the Braves are in the thick of the pennant chase, but I feel that I need some rest."

Stallings declares Evers is going to stick it out and the Trojan hints strongly that he will "hang around."

Owner Gaffney Will Stick by Johnny Evers

By JAMES C. GAFFNEY,
Who says he won't let Evers retire.

As long as I am president of the Boston club they are not going to drive Evers out of baseball. He is a star and needs a rest, he can have it. But I hope he stays in. I paid Evers' fine of $100 after his trouble with Umpire Quigley because I felt sure Johnny wasn't to blame. I insist sticking by him and am confident he will return East with the club.

Moran Is Back and Is Chasing Willard

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—One of the first things heavyweight Frank Moran said when he reached Broadway today, following his return from the other side on the American liner, St. Paul, was that he was very anxious to meet Jess Willard in a scrap for the title.

"I will be ready to fight the battle of my life in five weeks," Moran said. "And I propose to go back to Willard until he gives me a chance."

Foster Leads Both Leagues in Hurling

George Foster, the diminutive Red Sox pitcher, enjoys the distinction today of being the leading twirler in both major leagues. Foster has won fourteen and lost four games, for the grand percentage of .778.

Joe Wood ranks second in the American League, with seven victories and four defeats. Al Mamaux, the leading pitcher of the National League, has the same record as "Smokey Joe."

"Red" Morton Is Honored.

BRIDGEPORT, July 9.—"Red" Morton pitched five innings for the Cleveland Indians in their exhibition game with Bridgeport, while Manager Lee Fohl caught. Both old New England favorites were warmly welcomed. The Indians won the contest, 9 to 6.

BRAVES-CARDS IN 2D BATTLE

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 9.—Combat No. 2 of the current series between the armies of Stallings and Huggins is set for this afternoon on Robison Field.

The resident baseball-going public had been led to believe that the Braves were hobnobbing along like a row of burning tenements and were going to keep going until they landed at the top of the heap.

Maybe yes; then again, maybe no. Judged on yesterday's doings on the local lot, the Braves find themselves this trip in precisely the same predicament the Red Sox were in upon the occasion of their first whirl of the season around the western and of the circuit.

Magnate Lannin and Manager Carrigan eventually straightened out all discord within the ranks of their outfit, with the result that the Red Sox got headed the right way and never stopped going upwards until they hit the top position.

Right now there's some tinkering to be done with the Braves. Rather, it's all up to one J. Evers. He either is, or isn't, going to retire, and the Braves either are, or ain't, going to miss him. The Keystone King was on the job yesterday, but he made a sorrowful mess of things. He performed as if he had a grievance; as if he had it in for some one. As a result the whole club played below its right speed and the Cardinals had little difficulty in registering a 7 to 2 triumph.

Today Evers said he guessed he would stay with the club, and Stallings added that he was confident the Trojan was going to stick. The Miracle Man refuses to admit that his club pulled a very unseen show yesterday, or that Evers exerted a sad pull alone can when traveling on high. Stallings is mum about everything, and, if he lectured his players for their sorrowful performances yesterday, is keeping it to himself.

The Braves draw out a crowd of some 12,000 yesterday, and the indications are that the weekday business will be brisk. Wednesday night they hit out for Philadelphia, where they inaugurate a four-game series Friday. Then, a week from Wednesday, they will be back home and be seen at Mr. Gaffney's brand new baseball yard.

It looks like "Dick" Rudolph against either "Rabbit" Robinson or Dan Griner in today's matinee.

If Johnson Bets $25,000 Willard Will Fight Him

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 9.—To prove that Jess Willard is Jack Johnson's master, Jack Curley, who arranged the Havana fight, stands ready to negotiate a return battle. Curley, who is a Lincoln visitor, issued this statement last night:

"Johnson having publicly stated that he will fight Willard for a side bet of $25,000, just to call his bluff, I will say in behalf of Willard that he will fight Johnson under the management of John Bull, the London sporting publication, for a side bet of $25,000.

"Willard will accept 50 per cent. of the gate receipts, the other 50 per cent. to be donated to some charity. Under no circumstances must Johnson receive one cent other than the side bet, if he can win it. We will insist that Referee Eugene Corri shall act, and that he shall call off all private bets prior to the battle so that Johnson cannot hedge his money by betting on Willard."

Donovan and Griff After Sanford Burk

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 9.—The New York Americans have entered a bid against the Washingtons for Sanford Burk, the Indianapolis (American Association) pitcher, who hopped to the Pittsburgh Federals two weeks ago.

Manager Hendricks of the Hoosiers, who was in court on the hearing to restrain Burk from playing with the Cardinals, admitted that these teams are after Burk. He says he knows Burk to stop the losing streak of his club, and later in the season will sell him to the highest bidder.

Brooklyn After Dan Griner.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 9.—Manager Robinson of the Brooklyn club is hot after Pitcher Dan Griner of the Cardinals. He has offered Pitcher Appleton in exchange for the blonde right-hander, and Miller Huggins has the bid under consideration.

BROWNS AND HOSE IN A DOUBLE BILL

The Browns arrived in town this morning. Manager Branch Rickey and nineteen players are here to battle the Red Sox at the ball yard the next four days. The sport starts with a double-header this afternoon.

For the first time this season Manager Rickey brings the Browns to Boston with his corps of pitchers in working order.

Carl Woolworth Weilman, the tall-out pitcher in captivity, "Bill" James, running a close second for the honors. Earl Hamilton, George Sisler, Grover Laudermilk, Ernest Koob and Rollin Cook are the slab artists Rickey has here with him.

Ernest Koob is the new star of the hurling staff. Manager Rickey believes he is a coming wonder. In the last twenty-four innings he has worked the opposition has scored only two runs.

James and Weilman are the likely candidates for the two games this afternoon. Foster and Ruth will probably show for the Red Sox.

Germany Schaefer Explains a Boner

"Any player who fails to keep a close eye on batted lines is likely to pull a 'boner' every so often," asserts "Germany" Schaefer, now allied with the Newark Feds. "That's why so many of the brainy men in baseball pull 'boners.'

"It takes brains to figure out new plays. If the new play goes through, all's lovely. But if it doesn't the player is branded as an ivory-domed guy.

"That's why there aren't many new plays being originated in these days. Players hate to take the chance of falling down and being labelled a bonehead."

Tener May Appoint Bill Dahlen Umpire

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Bill Dahlen, ex-manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, stands a mighty good chance of getting a position as umpire in the National League. Dahlen is sponsored by some of the biggest men in baseball.

Dahlen ideally is fitted for the position. As a star player and manager Bill has had a wealth of baseball experience and he knows the rules back from cover to cover. He is a good mixer, has the nerve, gumption and nerves that even Johnny Evers can't graze on. Dahlen has been umpiring semi-professional games in Brooklyn.

Baseball Over the Wire.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Aug. 9.—First Baseman Eddie Lapke, formerly of Bridgeport, Ct., has signed with the St. Joseph (Western League) club.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Manager Dooner of the Jersey City club has released Pitcher Ayers and Outfielder Lapke to the Jersey City (International League) club.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 9.—Sheridan Harry Daubert of the Charleston (Ohio State League) club, has been purchased by the Pittsburgh Nationals. He reports to Manager Clarke at Pittsburgh.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—Manager Mack of the Athletics announces the purchase of Catcher Myers of the Davenport (Three Eye League) club.

Young Catcher for Carrigan.

Catcher Fred ("Brick") Wilder of the Marlboro club is to be given a tryout by Manager Carrigan of the Red Sox. He is a twenty-year-older and considered a sure comer.

N. Y. YACHTS ON A CRUISE TO GLOUCESTER

MARBLEHEAD, Aug. 9.—The fleet of the New York Yacht Club will continue its sail today. The yachts will journey to Gloucester via the Boston Light and then return here tomorrow. The members of the fleet will then be tendered a dinner by the Eastern Yacht Club.

All members of the New York Yacht Club that came around the cape were delighted with their reception at Marblehead. They were particularly pleased with the illumination of the harbor last night, when, at a signal from the town hall, the beautiful little horseshoe-shaped bay was lit up by red fire.

Later there was a fine display of fireworks, which was witnessed by thousands of visitors from Boston, Lynn and Beverly. Commodore George F. Baker, Jr., was greatly pleased over the fact that the eighty odd yachts of the N. Y. Y. C. fleet passed safely through the Cape Cod Canal without the slightest mishap of any kind.

HARBOR FILLED WITH YACHTS.

Outside of the N. Y. Y. C. fleet there were over 100 other smaller yachts belonging to the Eastern, Marblehead, Corinthian and Boston Yacht Clubs in the harbor, and the spectacle has attracted thousands of visitors, who lined this rock-bound harbor from early in the morning until late last night.

The fleet was illuminated, and the Viking, Corsair, Alberta, Kanahaba, Cynthia, Monhegan, Uncas, Onoida, Alcyone, Acady, Naroday, Gunevere, Felicia, and Admiral made a fine display with their hulls, yards and spars outlined in electric lights.

It was visitors' day and Commodore Baker of the Viking and Commodore Herbert M. Sears of the Eastern Yacht Club spent most of the day receiving callers on their flagships.

Among the 50-footers W. Earl Dodge's Samoral, well sailed by Edmond Fish, has carried off the chief honors of the cruise, winning three races out of four, including the Astor and Commodore's cups and the Navy Challenge Cup, while among the schooners William F. Isleib's Enchantress, E. Walter Clark's Irolita and Hendon Chubb's Queen Mab are the chief winners.

CHANGE RESOLUTER'S SAILS.

Charles Francis Adams, 2d, and Robert W. Emmons, who have charge of the Resolute, are not quite satisfied with the Bristol boat's showing against the Vanitie in windward work, and have changed her mainsail and took a little sail-stretching spin outside of the harbor.

Bill Donovan admits that the Yanks haven't a chance to win the American League pennant. That makes it unanimous.

Looking over the box scores from Philadelphia, we find that Wallie Schang has done everything at Shibe Park except take tickets at the gate.

Lee Fohl is one of the sensations of the American League. He has lifted the Cleveland team up to seventh place.

The purse offered for the McFarland-Gibbons bout breaks the world's record for no-decision scraps. Some of it is real money.

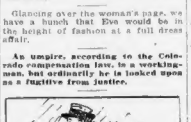
There must be a slight mistake in the report that Connie Mack has offered $3,000 for a bush league pitcher. Connie wouldn't offer that much for Walter Johnson.

Martin Delaney's dry land swimming lessons show how the world has advanced since the days of our youth. In those we were young the orthodox method of teaching a kid to swim was to throw him off the dock.

For a pugilist Johnny Beace has an appropriate name. He probably eats em alive.

Glancing over the woman's page, we have a hunch that Eve would be in the height of fashion at a full dress affair.

An umpire, according to the Colorado compensation law, is a workingman, but ordinarily he is looked upon as a fugitive from justice.



Rain falls alike on the just and the unjust, but it usually falls on a man with a straw hat.

"Broken hands," says a boxing expert, "have caused the downfall of many a white hope." If the average white hope's head were as durable as his head they would last forever.

FOILING THE WEATHER MAN.

It rained and it poured and it showered;
I cared not a whoop when it did
My straw hat was safe in the cleaners
And I wore my old Winter lid.

An umpire in St. Louis was knocked out by the heat, but generally it is a ball player that knocks them out.

AND STILL THEY ARE CALLED ROUGHNECKS.

If soldiers all were pugilists there would not be a war,
For pugilists would want to know what they were fighting for.

FOR INSTANCE.

If Tommy Atkins had been told to beat up Herman Schmidtz
And Hermann had been told to blow the other into bits,
And if they had been pugilists they would have answered "Yes"
We will not fight unless we get a section of the dough
We will not risk our arms and legs and shed our ruddy gore
While you who fatten on the fight make millions by the score.
Although it is a noble stunt to redden
hill and dale,
We will not fight unless we get a portion of the kale."
And thus the world-wide warfare would be ended in a minute,
For bankers would not start a war if there were nothing in it.

AND STILL THEY ARE CALLED ROUGHNECKS.

If pugilists were soldiers there would never be a war,
For pugilists would want to know what they were fighting for.

LINART-DIDIER IN BIG RACE AT REVERE

The Linart-Didier $1,000 bike match is on again. This much-talked-of race will be ridden at the Revere track on next Saturday. It will be a twenty-five mile contest behind motor pace.

Linart and Didier met a month ago, but what promised to be a great struggle was turned into an easy victory for Linart when Didier fell and broke his collarbone with the race only half completed. The Frenchman was leading by a wide margin at the time of the accident and appeared to have the race well in hand. It's hard telling, however, what Linart might have pulled, as he is a particularly strong finisher.

Anyway, the unfinished match left food for discussion, and Linart, like the true sportsman that he is, would not take the $1,000 which was rightfully his, but left it hanging fire until such time as Didier would be in shape to race over again.

That Didier is now ready could easily be seen by his great exhibition at the beach oval Saturday night, when he twice defeated Clarence Carman, considered the greatest of the American speed merchants. Didier took two of the fastest ten-mile heats that have ever been seen at the seaside track and did it without once losing his pace. His speed was really remarkable, as the times of 13:47:01 and 13:21:04 best show.

Besides the big match race Wednesday night there will be a special tandem contest and the regular card of amateur and professional open events.

L. C. Rollins, the Everett youngster, in the latest amateur to turn "pro" and, like Willie Turville, is expected to cut quite a figure in the money-making class before many more meets have passed.

Water Sports to Be Held at Magnolia

The water carnival of the Swimming Pool club of Magnolia will be held next Saturday. The program will include men's 200-yards relay, 50 and 100-yard swims, obstacle races, fancy diving, girls' 50-yard swim and fancy diving, and 25 and 50-yard swim for boys. Comedy features will be a pillow fight on a spar and picking a flag from the depth of a pool.

Entries close Friday night with Edgar Allen at the Pool, Magnolia.

Howard Drew to Quit the Track

SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 9.—Howard F. Drew, of this city, the track athlete, announced his intention to retire from racing in a signed statement published here and telegraphed from the Panama-Pacific Exposition field, where he was booked in the 100-yard dash event of the senior A. A. U. track and field championships.

American Prize Ring Got Very Black Eye

In its early days the American prize ring was about as tough and terrible as can be imagined.

Therefore, it is no wonder, says Jess Willard in his autobiography, that a very strong prejudice grew up against it in this country. Dive-keepers and gamblers were the principal backers of the game, and the fights were pulled off in out-of-the-way places.

In tomorrow's installment, for instance, Willard discusses John L. Sullivan's early battles, which were fought on tugboats and in other inaccessible places.

Woburn "Fans" Root for Stearns in Big Series Contest

How did you like the new vote standing in the World's Series Contest which appeared in yesterday's Sunday AMERICAN?

Did you notice that Stearns' lead? Do you see how some of the candidates are demonstrating by their vote-gathering efforts, how easy it is to jump up among the leaders from a position away down in the list?

For example, take the case of R. V. McKinnon of Providence, R. I. He jumped from forty-second place to W. A. Stearns, twenty-second place, taking the Rhode Island lead among the six State leaders.

Just see how a little hustling will send your name up in the standing!

Roy G. Hatch of Winthrop moved up four places, from twenty-fourth to twentieth position, taking the Massachusetts lead among the six State leaders.

Other changes will be noticed right down the list.

George Garden of Boston moved up from twenty-third to twenty-first place.

Raymond E. Doyle of Providence, R. I., moved up from twenty-fifth to eighteenth place. In his last week's position of twenty-fifth in the list he was at that time also the State leader for Rhode Island. Now he has moved up to eighteenth place, putting him among the nineteen open class trips, which means that if, by any chance, he slips out of the open class of nineteen leaders, he still has his Rhode Island State leadership to fall back upon with its special trip.

There is no time to lose—not an hour to be wasted in wondering how things are going to develop—the thing to do is to get right out on the trail, rounding up all available vote coupons and putting life and energy into your campaign. Half-hearted work will never land for you one of these splendid free trips to the World's Series.

GET BUSY!

Woburn is all "hot up" over the fight being put up by W. A. Stearns of No. 19 Bright street for one of the free trips.

Mr. Woburn is noted for its ability to put through winners in campaigns of all sorts, it would not be at all surprising to find Mr. Stearns' name among the list of fortunate twenty-five at the finish.

M'Loughlin to Play at Seabright Today

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 9.—Play in the annual tennis tournament for the Achelis Challenge Cup starts at the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club this afternoon with a galaxy of stars in the hunt for the famous trophy now held by Richard Norris Williams, 2d., the National champion. Followers of the game who expect that the cup will go to California this year are legion in number, for Maurice E. McLoughlin is among the twenty-four competitors.

The Achelis Cup is about the only really big trophy on which McLoughlin has never had his name inscribed. He has always happened that when the famous Comet has been in the East he has been too busy planning to assail or defend the Davis cup to go after the Achelis trophy.

The feature matches scheduled for today will bring McLoughlin against Lyle E. Mahan, Niles against Walter Merrill Hall, Wm. A. Dawson, the youngster from San Francisco, against Sidney Thorpe, Jr., of Philadelphia, and S. H. Voshell against D. Morgan of Washington. In the doubles, which will start tomorrow, McLoughlin will play with Dawson.

Kessener Swims to Light.

William Kessener of South Boston, negotiated the swim from Charlestown Bridge to Boston Light, covering the distance in six hours and six minutes, the second best time ever made.

The course Kessener followed was almost identical with that taken by Richards when he established his record time. Kessener was handled and piloted by Sam Richards.

SOUND BODIES

By JULIAN HAWTHORNE

This is the thirtieth of a series of articles on "Sound Bodies" written exclusively for the Boston AMERICAN by Julian Hawthorne. These articles will be continued in the AMERICAN on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

This Exercise Will Improve Your Loins, and Appetite as Well.

The kick-back is naturally followed by the kick-up, also a specialty of the ballet, and another of the several blessings which that form of activity has bestowed upon the human race. Ballet-dancers carry it to an extreme which not all of us lay brothers can aspire to rival; but even a moderate degree of it goes a long way toward realizing the ideal physical standard which we have in view.

You put your arms akimbo, as before; but I may here observe that when I said the other day that the model for this posture could be found in any ring of street idlers watching somebody else do something, I ought to have warned you against the hollowed chest and rounded shoulders which such persons commonly present. Our position requires, as usual, that the chest be well filled out, and the elbows held a little back. There is to be nothing slack about us at any time—though, nevertheless, we are not less to avoid an ungainly stiffness; our rigidity must be that of abounding life held at tension, never of awkward immobility. Arms akimbo, then, but in such a way that an observer would know that you are ready for, and capable of, anything.

Now put out your right arm, in front of you, till it is parallel with the shoulder. You may put it above the shoulder-level later on; but we must begin modestly. Keeping it at that point, with the hand outstretched, palm down, execute your kick. In bringing up the leg, be particularly careful to guard against any bending at the knee. As soon as the knee bends, the value of the exercise is gone. And don't let there be any bending of the knee of the leg you are standing on. Be on the watch, also, against any inclination forward of the body at the waist, or the shoulders, by way of meeting the kick, and thus lessening its efficacy. Play fair with yourself, and if you find you cannot reach the palm of your hand with the toe of the kicking foot, practice until you can do so, but don't achieve a contact by easing up on the conditions.

This exercise will give a new stretching to the back muscle of the thigh; but it will also produce a sudden tautening of the abdominal muscles low down, and of the region about the loins. You don't need to be told how desirable strong loins are to a man. They are taking a great deal about eugenics just now; but everyone who takes part in the argument should be able, in order to qualify, to kick as high as the head at least.

As you gain flexibility and power, raise the hand until it reaches the head-level, or more, observing conscientiously all the other rules. Do it with a vim, and enjoy it. In really high kicking, the arms must be used as a balance, and the body will be thrown a little backward; but we need not concern ourselves about that in this place. Kick twenty times, as high as you can go, first with the right leg, then with the left, and you will find the benefit sufficient. It will improve your appetite into the bargain.

Gloucester Regatta Is Record-Breaker

GLOUCESTER, Aug. 9.—The annual open regatta of the Gloucester Yacht Club was held this forenoon and the boats will be sent over the course off Eastern Point. On account of the large number of Yacht Racing Union of Massachusetts boats in the harbor and the great interest in racing displayed by the local yachtsmen the entry list exceeded that of any event of this kind ever held in these waters.

There are about fifty boats of the Yacht Racing Union of Massachusetts here and they will race in the open events. The first race started at 10 o'clock in order to allow the visiting yachtsmen and local boats to make an early start for Marblehead where they are scheduled to compete the remainder of the week.

Baseball News and Notes

FOLLOWERS of the Braves are in the dumps. Current sadness stings badly. Inasmuch as the Champions got started on the road in great shape. For a starter, after beating it the night of July 26, they took the one game played in Brooklyn; grabbed three out of five in Cincinnati and followed with a clean-up in the three-games series in Pittsburgh.

SINCE then naught but and debut has been wafted Eastward. All three games in Chicago were copped by the Cubs, and in yesterday's inaugural in St. Louis the Braves got their first sure-enough, hope-to-die trouncing in many moons.

'TWAS a bum performance—a bogus one. Evers played. Rather, Evers was in the line-up. He did absolutely nothing for helped the good cause; in fact, is accused of "soldiering" on his job. That was when he didn't take the trouble to go through with a double play Maranville started off with a dash.

EVERS made the Braves and right now Evers is engaged in breaking them. The Trojan has got to be applauded for getting into the game for Stallings at the earliest possible moment after his busted prop healed. He worked mighty hard, also, to get the club started in the right direction, and, when the Braves got through in Pittsburgh last Wednesday, it was considered practically a sure thing on all sides that Boston was going to own another National League flag winner.

WHERE the Evers-Clarke incident was generally regretted by all the Braves' followers, the punishment meted out by President Tener was anything but harsh. So, all good "fans" hoped all would be serene when the Trojan got back into the game.

EVERS showed at the keystone sack in the Chicago getaway show and made his presence felt. He scored the two Boston runs, fought as he alone can fight and put up a rapid fielding game. But when it was over he issued the doleful statement that he feared he could not stick it out. He showed in St. Louis yesterday but worked in a half-hearted manner and the club was soundly soaked.

* * *

WHETHER Evers is going to stay in the game, or whether it is absolutely necessary for him to get out, will be known when the Braves get through in St. Louis, Wednesday. He often does well go through this series and adds that if Gaffney and Stallings insist he will make every effort to hang around until the flag race is over.

THE "right" Evers is worth his ounces in gold to the Braves. But if the Trojan is physically unfit for a continuation of his old, rapid-fire brand of ball, he must go out and Stallings will be forced to try and win with little Pittsgatrick.

THE RED SOX have the White Sox just about shut out. But the Tigers are holding on in tenacious fashion. The clan of Jennings is still in the hunt, and, if Hugh succeeds in buying a slab star of the calibre of "Bill" James or "Doc" Ayres, the Red Sox will have their hands full winning out.

FERGUSON READY FOR HIS BOUT WITH M'VEY

"Sandy" Ferguson of Chelsea, who meets Sam McVey in a 6-round bout at the Atlas A. A. tomorrow night, has done wonders out at Sunnyside Park, Natick. The big fellow is as brown as a berry and just as good physically as he looks. His condition is a revelation and his boxing in the training camp is conclusive evidence that he has regained all his old speed.

Ferguson surprised his most ardent admirers by battling down to work just as soon as the match with Jim Coffey was arranged and has kept close to the grindstone ever since.

With "Sandy" in proper form, and McVey on edge, the members of the Atlas A. A. will see two of the cleverest big men that ever donned a set of gloves.

McVey's boxing with Joe Jeanette and Sam Langford was the surprise of the local boxing season. He hits sharp and with unusual judgement, and, in addition blocks in a style that makes it difficult for an opponent to fathom his work.

Ferguson has been out of the game for some time, but during the past six months has lived the simple life and struck close to the water wagon.

McVey has trained in New York. He has worked with Colin Bell and Dave Mills and his manager says that he is in fine condition for tomorrow night's bout.

They are taking the precaution to have some one in McVey's corner who understands Ferguson's way of doing things. For that reason Manager Lawrence has sought the services of Johnny Mack of New York. Mack formerly handled "Sandy." He has been at the McVey training camp for several days coaching and advising the burly colored man from the Far West.

Mack has instructed McVey not to shake hands with "Sandy" after the referee gives them their instructions, for such a departure is apt to prove fatal to the knights of Satan.

Communications have been received from a number of heavyweights who want to place their charges in a ring with the winner of tomorrow evening's whirl.

"THE GODDESS"

By GOUVERNEUR MORRIS and CHARLES W. GODDARD

By Gouverneur Morris and Charles W. Goddard

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

GORDON BARCLAY'S servants had orders to admit no one without orders. The city was in a turmoil. With each fresh edition of the newspapers the situation of the conspirators became more serious. In the public parks effigies of them were hanged or burned.

It became necessary to keep a cordon of police about Barclay's house. In Semmes' house and Sturtevant's no window remained whole. For twenty hours two men had been Barclay's guests.

Gunsdorf's great hour had come—that hour for which he had plotted all his life, and lied for and schemed for. He had been the leading figure in the mob that had tried to lynch the triumvirate in the first burst of rage.

He found himself suddenly at the head of all the lawless elements in the city. He was drunk with power and a sense of his own importance. But openly he spoke of his love for mankind.

Through a man friendly to him and deep in Gunsdorf's councils, Tommy learned that the life of the man who had adopted him and been good to him was in danger. His house was to be stormed over the heads of the police, and himself hanged or torn to pieces, as might happen.

All their differences fled from Tommy's mind and he remembered only their mutual affection; so he hurried to the old familiar house and was presently admitted.

"It's not to say a few words," said Tommy, and he told Barclay what Gunsdorf was planning for that very day.

Gordon Barclay had turned very gray in the last few days. He was a broken and disappointed man. Still he clung warmly to that remnant of life which remained to him.

"We'll go to Gull Island," he said simply, "till this thing has blown over. I suppose you are not unhappy about what has happened. It's a pity she came back. . . . Tommy, when we quarreled I was ambitious for power only. Later I began to think that Celestia was a real panacea for a sick world, so that if I had been destined to rule, I would have ruled for the good of the people.

"I want you to know that what began in cynicism ended in faith and honesty. I have put you back in my will for practically everything I possess. Carlton Fish has turned knave. Mary, if she marries him, will be worthy of him."

"You'll need somebody to keep house for you at Gull Island," said Tommy. He was too moved to refer to what he had just learned. "I'll get Celestia there as quickly as I can."

"Have you married her?"

Tommy looked very manly when he said he had. And Barclay smiled one of his old-time dazzling smiles.

"And I think," he said, finally, "that you had better get out of this house as quickly as you can. I'm going, too. I can't afford to be a hero."

They shook hands and parted, never to meet in this life again.

Late that night Tommy and Celestia and Freddie the Ferret, whom Tommy was trying to train to be his valet, caught the last boat for Bartell's, on Bartell's Island, from which Gull's Island may be reached in an hour in a fast launch.

They had had no word of what had happened in New York. At Missaquid, the point of departure for Bartell's, there seemed to be some sort of a rumor in the air and a state of suppressed excitement. Usually it is a town that goes to bed very early. But this was not the case tonight. There was a rough-looking crowd at the station and at the wharf.

Gunsdorf had been the leading figure in the mob that had tried to lynch Barclay

Tommy, without arousing suspicion, could not find out if Barclay, Semmes and Sturtevant had gone on ahead or were following.

"If they are behind us," he said to Celestia, "they'll have to charter something. Perhaps father will come all the way by boat—that would be best. His own yacht would be spotted. But he'll work something."

Gull Island resembles a loaf of bread that had risen too much. A rounded, billowing top is set upon high, almost perpendicular sides. There is only one landing place, and from this the habitable portions of the island are reached by a steep and narrow path. A determined man with a pile of cobblestones could stand off an army.

It was Gordon Barclay's favorite estate. The timber was mostly scrub oak and scrubby little pines, but in a dense grove of these Barclay had built a low, rambling house which was very dear to him, and wonderful rose gardens, which were even dearer.

Watch for the next instalment of this wonderful serial in tomorrow's Boston AMERICAN.

FOG is caused by the condensation of the atmospheric vapor by the presence of cold, and therefore occurs most often at seasons when there is the greatest variation of temperature during the day.

A diving-suit made of an aluminum alloy of great strength has been recently invented. It is stated that by means of this suit divers can do salvage work at extraordinary depths. They have, for example, already used the new armor at a depth of two hundred and twelve feet, and could have gone even deeper had they not already reached bottom.

Airships equipped with machine-guns run a certain degree of risk from an explosion caused by the flame at the muzzle of the gun. Hence considerable study has been devoted to obviating this danger, and a young Florentine chemist, named Guido Fei, is said to have recently given a demonstration before an Italian military commission of a new powder invented by him which burns without either flame or smoke, and does not flare on detonation.

Experiments have shown that fertilizing with straw is followed by a diminution of the crop, after which some increase may be observed in the succeeding year. Most of these experiments have been carried out in pots or on very small plots in the open. This curious effect of straw is attributed to the circumstance that soil bacteria, which would in the ordinary course be capable of affording available nitrogen to the crop, waste their energy on the straw.

Commercial rubber which is kept in perfectly dry air is not capable of furnishing nutriment to any form of microbe, but in the presence of sufficient moisture it may be attacked by certain bacteria or moulds which feed on albuminoids, resins and sugars. Some microbes form red, yellow, brown or black spots on rubber without sensibly altering its properties.

If Wishes Came True

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1915, by International News Service.

THEN the little person of 'leven, pouting and dreaming, would be grown-up and covered with glory of tribute and costume, and Gran'mother, sunk in reverie, would be of ALL things in the world—just 'LEVEN! That's a story most as old as the oldest one (which is of Love), the story of Wishes, and how, while Childhood agonizes for years, Age sorrows for its childhood back again.

Parents and the Child

Destroying Faith by Carelessness

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

Copyright, 1915, International News Service.

MOST unspoiled, and therefore happy, children regard their parents as well-nigh infallible. They may—indeed will—at times feel swift rebellion when the father or mother opposes some cherished plan, but such sensation is of short duration. As the child's temper subsides and he becomes once more his sane and sensible self, there returns to him the conviction that what the parent has prohibited would easily not have been permitted.

Well and may it be so. I wish to seem irreverent when I say that the little nave's attitude is very much like that of the religious person, who, in the first flush of a great disappointment, almost doubts the kindness of God, yet, as he returns to his normal state of mind, remembers that the Ruler of the Universe makes no mistakes.

As children do think of their fathers and mothers in this comfortable and comforting way, is it not a pity when one of the parents disturbs such confidence? I do not think that the mother who complains to the child of his father appreciates what turmoil she is causing in the childish heart, nor what trouble she may be laying up for herself in the future. She lets indignation or displeasure get the better of her discretion and speaks without consideration of the consequences.

Long ago I heard an irritable wife's sarcasm in the presence of her seven-year-old son. "I do wish your father would come home in time for dinner! There is no sense in his staying at the office so late. He promised to be home tonight on time."

"Then, mother," asked the child wonderingly, "why does he stay downtown now when he said he would be home at dinner time?"

The day had been hot and the mother was tired. Her servant had left her, and she herself had had to cook the dinner; she had made a souffle that would be spoiled by standing. She spoke out her angry and untrue thought.

"He stays away, son, just to worry me!" she declared.

"Oh!" the boy gasped. "Does father do that, mother? Does he stay away just to worry you? And when he promised to come home, too?"

His mother made no reply, and there was a moment's silence before the lad spoke again. When he did there were tears in his eyes. "I don't love father," he said.

The woman turned upon him reprovingly. "I am ashamed of you, Ned," she chided. "You are a naughty boy to say that you do not love your father. He is very good to you always."

"He is not good to you," the lad quavered. "He tries to worry you—and he broke his promise to you."

Poor little fellow! Years afterward, when the nervous, overwrought mother had passed away from earthly worries, and when I heard that the father had no influence over his impulsive, wayward son, I could not help wondering if the seeds of rebellion against the father had not been unwittingly sown by the loving mother when the child was too young to discriminate between just condemnation and unreasonable anger.

A husband and wife cannot always approve of what the other does, but each can seem to do so when in the presence of the children. If there must be altercations or arguments as to what the little ones shall or shall not do, let it be when the subjects of such discussions are not within earshot.

"May I go to the circus tomorrow, daddy?" one small girl asked.

Her manner awakened her father's suspicions. "What does mother say about it?" he questioned.

The child flushed. "Oh, well, she said I couldn't go till Saturday, but I thought perhaps you'd say I could."

"Don't mother and I always say the same thing about what you may do?" the father asked.

"Oh, yes, daddy—when you know what the other one says. But this time you didn't know—so I thought perhaps you'd say yes," remarked the little schemer.

She had already learned that her father and mother agreed with regard to what was good for her. When parents have established that certainty in the minds of their children, they have done much toward winning unshaken confidence and absolute obedience.

LOVE'S a misty cobweb, set in rainbow dew;
Love's the rainbow "pot of gold" none may ever view;
Love's the vine that all admire—rising sun with heart of fire.
Gleam of longing and desire, where life's pilgrims all aspire:
Till it vanish into air, you will follow everywhere
Love may summon you.

Love's an open morning-glory doomed at noon to close.
Love is the day's first fairy story, told 'ere sunset glows.
Love's the fading glow of night, afterglow that poles from sight,
Lost in dark and burst by light. Love is naught—but sad your plight
If you never know the pain, bitter-sweet and joy again
Love would bring to you.

MAIDEN MEDITATIONS

Life is full of golden opportunities—but most of them are to do the particular thing we don't care for.

Very few husbands have better wearing qualities than their best carving knives—and tempered steel cannot be plunged into hot water without losing its edge!

It is most amazing to feel sure you know just how some one would act under given circumstances and then have them proceed in just the opposite manner—especially when that someone is yourself.

The pebbles in our path cut our shoes and bruise our feet—but when we have to make our way over rocks our feet bear us over them with far less pain; only our soles are lacerated.

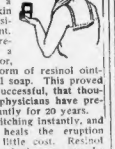
Men who are blind to their own faults may be deaf to their own consciences and unable to walk what they know is the straight and narrow path as well.

The woman who insists on the last word has probably had the first word in the engagement too; 25 about 95 per cent. of what went in between. When a girl is mighty well pleased with herself, all the other girls are pleased to remark how little it takes to please her.

The man who doesn't trust to luck or pin all his faith in it—is lucky!

What to Do for Itching Skins

Eczema, ringworm and other itching, burning skin eruptions are so easily made worse by improper treatment, that one has to be very careful. There is one method, however, that you need not hesitate to use, even on a baby's tender skin—that is the resinol treatment.



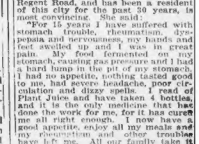
Resinol is the prescription of a Baltimore doctor, put up in the form of resinol ointment and resinol soap. This proved so remarkably successful, that thousands of other physicians have prescribed it constantly for 20 years.

Resinol stops itching instantly, and almost always heals the eruption quickly and at little cost. Resinol ointment and resinol soap can be bought at any druggist's, and are not at all expensive. Write for free sample, Dept. 22-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.—Advertisement.

ALL THE FAMILY TOOK THE REMEDY

Mrs. M. Morton, of No. 15 Regent Road, Gives Convincing Testimonial.

"The principal reason that the fame of Plant Juice has spread like wild fire throughout our great cities is because everyone who has tested it or has seen what it will do, has a good word for it, and never misses a chance to speak of it," said the Plant Juice Man, who has his headquarters at the Liggett Drug Store, corner of Washington and Avon streets. "The history of Plant Juice, the way in which the manufacturer first made it, and the great events that have followed, have been the subject of numerous newspaper articles throughout America," continued the Plant Juice Man, the story is an interesting one and I like to tell it, but here is something more to the point: Plant Juice is now being introduced into Massachusetts.



MRS. M. MORTON.

It has already established a firm hold in Boston, where it is proving and revitalizing hundreds of citizens in all walks of life. That these contentions are true it is only necessary for one to spend a short time listening to statements of local people who have given Plant Juice a trial.

For instance, the statement of Mrs. M. Morton, whose address is No. 15 Regent Road, and has been a resident of this city for the past 30 years, is well worth reading and heeding.

"For 15 years I have suffered with stomach trouble, chronic indigestion, dyspepsia and nervousness, my hands and feet swelled up and I was in great pain. My food fermented on my stomach, causing gas pressure and I had a hard lump in the pit of my stomach, I had no appetite, nothing tasted good to me, had severe headache, poor circulation and dizzy spells. A few of Plant Juice and have taken 4 bottles, and it is the only medicine that has done the work for me, for it has cured me all right enough. I now have a good appetite, enjoy all my meals and my dyspepsia and other troubles have left me. All our family take it now."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Liggett Drug Co.'s Store, corner Washington and Avon Street, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

WALSH MOVES FOR DRYDOCK HEARING

Governor Walsh, as one of his first official acts since his return from the Panama-Pacific Exposition, will on Wednesday request the Governor's Council to assign a date for a public hearing on the Boston drydock contract.

The contract as originally awarded to Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins has been attacked by labor organizations, who contended that the re-advertising of the bids would save the State from $125,000 to $150,000 through the lower cost of materials.

The Board of Port Directors reviewed the contract awarded by the old board, and then reported in favor of the original award by a vote of two to one. Joseph A. Conry has filed a dissenting opinion with the Governor, in which he declares that it is inadvisable to make the award under existing conditions.

Governor Walsh assured the labor leaders before his departure that he would request the council to delay action on the contract until at least after a public hearing.

Janitor Fights Blaze in Office in Old South Building

Crossed wires caused a fire in the offices of the Norfolk & Western Railroad, on the third floor of the Old South Building.

Patrolman Melinose of the City Hall avenue station and the janitor hitched up the emergency hose. The janitor fought the fire while Melinose telephoned in an alarm.

By the time the apparatus arrived the fire was under control, but the interval between the time the fire was discovered and the arrival of the apparatus a big crowd gathered in Washington street watching the smoke pouring from the windows.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were strong in New York, the improvement affecting war order issues, rails and coppers. Most of the trading, as usual, was in the first hour. When the week began it was found that there was considerable demand, but a limited supply of stocks. General Motors attained its highest record price soon after business began. Bethlehem Steel made a big gain. Crucible was another very strong issue. The large advances were in the war order class. In the others they ranged small. Sugars got the most attention, being considered the midsummer factor of prime importance. But this year all the talk has been about war and not crops.

GAINS WERE GENERAL.

Among early gains in New York were Allis-Chalmers 1¾, American Smelting ¾, U. S. Steel ½, Bethlehem Steel 10, Crucible 4¾, Pressed Steel 1¾, American Locomotive 1¾, Baldwin ⅝, General Motors 10 at 214, Studebaker ½, Westinghouse ¾, Inspiration, Car & Foundry ⅝, Beet Sugar ½, Union Pacific ⅜, St. Paul 1, Reading 1¾, Lehigh Valley 1 and Anaconda ¼. Anaconda was off ¼ and Utah ⅛.

A New York dispatch says: "Most attention was drawn to the start to trading in Crucible Steel. This stock sold at the opening in the way from 89 to 91 in different parts of the crowd, against 85½ at the close on Saturday."

At the end of half an hour Willys-Overland had sold at New York ahead of 150 and General Motors had advanced 15 to 219.

LOCAL MARKET LISTLESS.

The Boston market opened quietly and remained listless. Zincs were weaker. There was not enough business in coppers to indicate their trend on a close, but there was a deal in ranged higher. Butte & Superior was off ¼ and American Zinc ¼. Copper Range was off ⅛ and Wolverine. Mass. Gas was ½ higher. New Idria was up ⅛.

WILLARD THINKS COURAGE WORTH MORE THAN SIZE

By JESS WILLARD

(Copyright, 1915, by A. Merritt, All Rights Reserved.)

THE whole history of the prize ring smashes the idea that size is everything in fighting. Most of the great champions were well under six feet, weighing in the neighborhood of 175 and 180 pounds.

As a matter of fact, I am the only giant that ever reached the championship class and Jeffries and Johnson were bigger than any of the champions that went before them.

Bendigo and Deaf Burke were really middleweights and Pearce and Belcher and Johnson scaled around 200 pounds. All of them whipped the biggest men that could be found to go against them.

Courage is the main thing. It's the heart of a man that wins or loses. The next thing is condition. You may be the bravest fellow that ever walked, but unless you've got strength and wind and endurance you'll go down to defeat.

Skill is the third thing. Learn what to do with your hands and your body. Everything being equal I won't say that a little man can whip a big one, but I do say that the little man will win every time if he takes condition and skill up against plain brute strength.

I'm not champion because of my size. Bigger men than I have been whipped by middl-weights again and again. Fitzsimmons used to love to get hold of giants because they fell so hard.

I am champion because I kept my system free from tobacco and whiskey and got my boxing skill by good hard work. Even had I known less about boxing than I do, I feel that I would have won from Johnson on condition alone.

The best illustration of what a "little fellow" can do with his body is Tom Sayers, the welterweight who won the championship of England and held it against the world. Here was a man who stood 5 feet 8½ inches and weighed only 140 pounds, and yet he trimmed them all.

In the rise and fall of Sayers there are as many lessons as any preacher ever crammed into a sermon. Starting out as a brickinyer, he lived a clean, wholesome life until he was thirty-five years old. It was at this time that he left the ring, the picture of health and undisputed champion.

With money to spend and plenty of time, he began to go the pace. Drink and late hours soon did their work. In four years the great Tom Sayers was a physical wreck. Consumption and kidney trouble brought him down to a shadow of his former self, and it was little more than a skeleton that his friends carried to the grave.

The record of Sayers is even more remarkable than that of Fitzsimmons, for the Cornishman stands three inches taller and weighs at least twenty-five pounds more.

Beginning with men of his own size, Sayers whipped everybody in sight, and in 1858 announced that he was ready to take on any of the big fellows. It was in this year that a championship belt was bought by public subscription and put up to be fought for.

It was handed first to Ferry, the Tipton Slasher, then the recognized champion. Matches to go to the longer began at once. Tom Paddock whipped Harry Brooms and Sayer took on his first heavy in the person of Aaron Jones.

A draw was called in the sixty-second round, both men being too exhausted to go on. A second time the men entered the ring and Sayers proved the winner after two hours of desperate fighting. He was now ready for his match with the champion.

The men finally met on June 16, 1857. The Slasher stood six feet tall and weighed 200 pounds, fairly towering over Sayers, who stripped at 154 pounds.

From the first the fight belonged to Sayers. While the Slasher had trained hard, six weeks of work could not take away the fat piled on by six years of drinking. He was as slow as a dray-horse and Sayers had little trouble in sidestepping his ponderous rushes.

Bill Hainge, an awkward giant, was the next man to fall victim to the new champion and in 1858 Sayers defended his belt a second time against Tom Paddock.

The rules of the championship were that the champion did not have to fight for less than $1,000 but all that Tom Paddock could raise was $750.

"I'll never let a bit o' blunt stand between a pal and his chance at the belt," said Sayers. "We'll fight for $750."

Paddock proved no better match for Sayers than had the Tipton Slasher. The champion was entirely one hour and twenty minutes by too fast for him and after fighting Paddock's seconds threw up the sponge.

Victories over Bill Hainge and Bob Brettle finished up all the jobs that Sayers had on hand. The belt was now his personal property, for he had defended it three years without a defeat.

In the meantime, Aaron Jones had sailed for the United States and was giving boxing lessons in New York. He saw the fight between Heenan and Morrissey and got the idea of taking one of them back to England to fight Sayers for the championship of the world.

Heenan was finally picked as the right man and the first great international fight took place at Farnborough on April 17, 1860. As I have said before, there's little doubt that Heenan won. Sayers was either knocked down or thrown in every round. In the thirty-seventh round the referee left the ring, but the men fought for seven rounds more.

In the thirty-ninth round Sayers was on the ropes, a beaten man. The ancient ruddy turned, the ropes were cut and a championship fight was turned into a disgraceful free-for-all.

Sayers was not to blame for the confusion of the crowd, nor was he disgraced by the battle. Heenan outweighed him by thirty pounds and it was a wonderful thing that the middleweight could stand the gaff for two hours and two minutes.

The better class of English sportsmen were so ashamed of the robbery that a movement was put on foot to raise a championship belt for Heenan. The belt was made and given, but the English forgot to pay for it and poor Heenan had to send it back.

Sayers refused to meet Heenan again and retired from the ring. Of the many men left in the field to battle for the championship, Jem Mace and Tom King were the only two who amounted to anything. The English ring was falling to pieces and crooked work was helping to wreck it.

"Macy the Gypsy" was a wonderfully clever man and got through. He got the trouble with him was that he lacked honesty. Time after time he took part in rank fakes, selling himself to the dirty schemes of the gamblers.

In their first fight Mace whipped King, but at a second meeting King was the victor. Then a chance blow won for him. Up to the nineteenth round Mace was leading by a mile and the betting was 10 to 1 on him.

He lost by his own recklessness. As King staggered to the scratch in the nineteenth Mace rushed in to land the finishing blow. He took no trouble to guard, but drew back for a free right-hand swing. With no last dying effort King brought his right over.

The fight was one of the hardest blows ever hit in a ring. It landed on Mace's left cheek and seemed to spread all over the face. Jem went down like a log and in a flash his whole face was swollen to twice its size.

As champion of England King was matched to fight Heenan and the second international fight took place at Farnborough. Here again the American was given the worst of it, crooked work dealing England's sportsmanship another blow.

When time was called for the eighteenth round King could not come to the scratch. Heenan and his seconds asked the referee to give him the fight, but that official refused. A wrangle followed and after some minutes of waiting the men were ordered to the scratch again.

The delay had given King a chance to recover. It had also given somebody a chance to slip a drug into Heenan's drinking water. The American staggered like a drunken man as he came up, and could barely raise his hands. Even at it took King six rounds to knock him out.

Like Heenan, King never fought again. Jem Mace took up the championship and held it in true fashion until 1870, when he went to Australia.

The theme of the prize ring now changed from England to America. Not only were China and Australia to take Mace's place, but the fake fights of the gypsy had killed the game entirely.

In 1882 Ryan went down before John L. Sullivan, the "Boston Strong Boy," and the last America had a real champion.

(Tomorrow Willard will sketch the history of the American ring from Tom Hyer to Jack Johnson.)

LOCAL BREVITIES

"Smoky" Joe Wood of the Red Sox has become famous. When Clerk Hudson called the name in police court today, a native of China answered and paid a fine of $5 for being present at a gambling raid. Last Saturday a prominent West End man appeared as Joe Wood for violation of traffic regulations. But they weren't "Smoky" Joe.

Margaret Polo, the five-year-old child who fell 65 feet from the roof of her home at No. 145 Endicott street Saturday, died today at the Relief Hospital. The child was playing on the roof when she fell over the railing.

Police of the Joy street station are investigating twelve complaints of attempts to rob tailors by the handkerchief game. Police Lieutenant Hilton and John Gallivan were in Central Court charged with attempting to secure $200 from Michael Sussi. They pleaded not guilty and were held in $500 for a hearing today.

She trouble between Frank Anastasi, the Dover street "boss" barber, and the barbers' union, has been referred to Robert W. Frost as master by Judge Morton of the Superior Court today. Anastasi's men went on strike. He seeks to have the union officers restrained from interfering with, he says, interfering with his business.

FIND MYSTERY NOTE IN PARCEL FOR "ELAINE"

"IT seems to me that I am being watched over by some strange providence in human form," mused Elaine Dodge aloud. Josephine and Walter Jameson listened with interest, and both agreed with her that since the strange and prolonged disappearance of Craig Kennedy some power which is a manifest intelligence has been guarding and protecting her.

Even while she spoke there arrived a small parcel carried by a messenger, who, after placing it in the hands of Bunkie, departed without waiting for a reply.

Opening the package Miss Dodge found enclosed a note.

"Dear Miss Dodge—This weapon shoots exactly into the centre of the light disc. Keep it by you.

"A Friend."

"A searchlight gun," exclaimed Josephine, sight of the weapon switched off the light. In the darkness Elaine pointed the gun and pulled a little trigger. Instantly a spot of light showed on the wall. She moved the revolver and the spot of light moved with it. Then she kept it in the centre of a little china plate Mr. Jameson had given her. Miss Dodge pulled the trigger. The plate was smashed into a hundred bits.

"Elaine, My Movie Picture Queen," is the title of a delightful song now in the market and which Miss Dodge and Pearl White and wears her autographed picture in the frontispiece. The song is a rollicking one-step, and is generally conceded to be one of the season's hits. It may be purchased at any music store, or a copy will be mailed promptly on sending six two-cent stamps to the Star Company, P. O. Box 1740, New York City.

OUR FIRST DUTY IS TO MAINTAIN PEACE;
OUR NEXT DUTY IS TO PREPARE FOR WAR

UNITED STATES SHOULD LEAD NEUTRALS IN DEMAND FOR RIGHTS

In a signed editorial which appeared in this newspaper on June 6th, Mr. Hearst said:—

"Immunity for neutral ships and cargoes, inviolability for neutral rights, must be conceded and maintained both by Germany and England, by Teutons and allies alike, must be demanded and enforced by the United States OR BY THE UNITED STATES IN CONJUNCTION WITH OTHER NEUTRAL POWERS."

Following up the suggestion of these last words, the Hearst newspapers, in accordance with specific instructions from Mr. Hearst, in the issues of July 26th, said:—

"It seems to us that our government is the one government peculiarly able to suggest and to form a league of all neutral nations and an arbitration tribunal, composed of representatives of all these neutral nations, to which our disputes with Germany and with Great Britain, too, might be submitted, as well as any and all matters affecting any or all other neutrals.

"We could prevent in this way any extension of this war which even now threatens to cripple so severely the Caucasian race and the high development of its civilization."

We think that the time for putting these suggestions into practice is now, at once.

We think that our government as the chief spokesman of the neutral nations and the power by all odds most largely concerned in the preservation and maintenance of the freedom of the seas and the rights of neutrals, should take IMMEDIATE steps toward the formation of the league of neutral nations and this international board of arbitration.

Neutral rights are in IMMEDIATE need of protection, for apparently Great Britain and possibly Germany also have rejected the demands of the United States in a way to imperil neutral rights.

Perhaps Germany has only refused to allow the United States to meddle in matters with which the United States has but questionable concern, but surely Great Britain has refused to respect the rights of neutrals as flagrantly as she refused to respect them in the situation which led to the war of 1812.

We do not want war if it can possibly be avoided, but we must have our own rights maintained and respected.

A league of neutral nations which would formally define, declare and maintain ALL neutral rights, would give our own demands not only greater force but greater authority.

It must be evident to every thinking man that some method of defining and maintaining neutral rights more effective than an endless exchange of diplomatic notes, which seem to perform no other function than irritating and which get matters nowhere, must be adopted.

We cannot go on forever exchanging diplomatic correspondence while our commerce with friendly neutral nations is being destroyed.

The British government's suggestion that its navy be permitted to continue seizing American ships bound to and from friendly neutral countries and that their seizures be arbitrated at some future time, after the war, is impossible.

The President has plainly told Germany that ACTS ALREADY COMMITTED are subjects of discussion, but that any FUTURE REPETITION of those acts will be regarded as being DELIBERATELY UNFRIENDLY.

There is nothing to do but to take the same stand against Great Britain.

The losses already unlawfully inflicted upon our commerce by Great Britain we can arbitrate.

But it is impossible for us to agree that Great Britain CAN CONTINUE to inflict unlawful injuries upon our commerce and that we will wait until the war is over to discuss the wrongs.

The President has debarred any such proceeding by his absolute refusal to adopt a precisely similar proposal made by Germany.

We must show a like face to all nations or abandon any pretense of fairness.

Since the President has placed these matters beyond any question of arbitration, we must all stand by him in his efforts to make Great Britain, as well as Germany, respect the full rights of neutrals.

Thus it is that we most earnestly urge the IMMEDIATE formation of a league of all neutral nations to make an IMMEDIATE AND AUTHORITATIVE definition and declaration of neutral rights and to put an immediate end to assaults upon those rights by either or all of the belligerent powers.

As the Teutons, Magyars and Turks are leagued on one side and the French, British, Russians, Italians, Belgians, Serbs, Montenegrins and Japanese are leagued on the other side to DESTROY THE WEALTH AND PROSPERITY OF THE WORLD, so we Americans should now and at once league ourselves with the South American republics and with Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, Switzerland and Spain TO PROTECT AND PRESERVE THE WEALTH AND PROSPERITY OF THE WORLD.

Never before, since the history of civilization began to be written, has man had such an opportunity to display the highest order of statesmanship and to serve so greatly the happiness and wealth of the human race as now has the President of the United States in this opportunity to call the neutral nations of the world to join this nation in the formation of a league for the protection of universal neutral rights and the promotion of speedy peace in war-cursed Europe.

May we not, as patriotic citizens of the republic, as well as citizens in other sense, of the great world itself, hope that our country will rise to the height of this wonderful and splendid opportunity to magnify the name of America and to bring peace to the distressed and agonized people of Europe?

Stand of the Massachusetts Progressives Is Likely to Prove of Nation-Wide Consequence

THE resolution offered in behalf of Charles Sumner Bird, and adopted by the Progressive State Committee, condemning the flagrantly reactionary record of the Republican party this year in Massachusetts, has the hearty endorsement of the AMERICAN.

Its censure is most significant. It lays at rest the rumor which the stand-pat Republicans have persistently spread that Mr. Bird and also the Progressive organization would support the Republican ticket in Massachusetts this year. It was incredible that the Progressives and Mr. Bird should stultify themselves by supporting the most unregenerate and thoroughly reactionary record the Republicans have made in ten years. Yet those who are moving heaven and earth to discourage the Progressives had gone to the bold length of claiming that they had private assurances from Mr. Bird and other prominent Progressives that they intended to abandon their course and to join with their worst enemy, the old gang Republicans.

This action by the Progressive committee is consistent with its party purposes and principles and with the true, long-run interests of the State.

Nor would it be an exaggeration to say that its action may prove of national consequence. Every intelligent Progressive knows that it is of supreme importance to the cause of progress in this country to keep the Progressive party intact, and to maintain its solidarity and esprit de corps on the eve of the coming national election. Every reactionary interest, every corporation political adjunct, every stand-pat leader in the Republican party, is making a supreme effort, by colored stories in the controlled newspapers and by every other device, to break down and disorganize the Progressives this year. Why? Clearly so that they may not be obliged to deal with the Progresssives in any strength when the great national lineup comes next year. These interests fear, while the Progressive sentiment is organized and capable of effective expression, that they will not be able to hold the Republican party in its old leading strength and STILL WIN THE NATIONAL ELECTION.

These interests care nothing about the Republican party, as such. To them it is a mere instrument through which they can control the government. When they ceased to control it they would abandon it. They would a good deal rather see an ordinary Democrat in the President's chair than a man like Roosevelt, Borah, Pinchot, La Follette or Cummins. These interests fear that if the Progressives have any strength remaining at the assembling of the Republican convention one of two things may happen: First, the mass of the Republicans who want to win, whether with real principles or without them, and who remember the disaster of four years ago under stand-pat leadership, may insist upon a progressive ticket and a progressive platform. Second, if the stand-pat interests succeed in controlling the Republican party in spite of the menace of organized, militant progressiveness, then the Democratic party may play for Progressive support by nominating a ticket and formulating a platform of policies which the Progressives can support.

Either horn of this dilemma would be disastrous to the interests which now control the Republican party.

But if through the newspapers and other means they can discourage each individual Progressive and make him believe that his fellow-Progressives have all abandoned their common cause, then they can so discourage them all and destroy their solidarity and militant spirit that they will cease to be a factor next year when the national political struggle comes.

Progressive independence in Massachusetts may lead, as the stand-pat Republican leaders argue, to the re-election of Governor Walsh, who has announced his candidacy. But in that event, will it be without good results? Will it not elect the real Progressive, actually tested under fire for two years in office? In what important respect do the things which Governor Walsh advocates differ from the things which the Progressives of Massachusetts advocate? Governor Walsh is far more progressive than his party, and those who are acquainted with affairs at the State House know that it is the Progressive strength in the State that helps him to keep his party loyal to sound principles.

But in any event, whatever the effect of Progressive independence this year may be upon the personal fortunes of Governor Walsh, this will be a mere incident of the more important result of teaching the Republican party that it cannot win while it remains in reactionary control.

And there is no more important State in which to teach this lesson than Massachusetts. The whole country regards Massachusetts as the citadel of stand-patism. The most active leader of reactionary Republicanism today is John W. Weeks, Senator from Massachusetts. He is at present the foremost stand-pat candidate for Republican nomination for President. The chief interests in the United Shoe Machinery Company are conducting an extraordinary, nation-wide propaganda to syndicate the Republican party for Senator Weeks. The publicity campaign for Senator Weeks is almost without parallel.

The Progressives of Massachusetts know Mr. Weeks' record. Because they do know his record they may think it absurd that there should be any possibility of his nomination for President. But it is not absurd. The interests behind him are powerful, well organized, and have stolen a march upon the rest of the field. Mr. Sidney Winslow, of the United Shoe Machinery Company, is a practical and indefatigable man.

If, however, the Progressives demonstrate to the country that the Republican party cannot carry Massachusetts under its old gang leaders, and with the reactionary record the Republicans in the Legislature made this year, and with a ticket headed by a reactionary like McCall or Lieutenant-Governor Cushing, on a stand-pat platform, the Progressives may thus help to exorcise the Republican party of its evil influences, make it progressive and an instrument for good to the country, as it once was when it nominated Lincoln, the rail-splitter and crude country lawyer, who was laughed at by smug respectability throughout the nation.

A DUBIOUS EXPERIMENT
